Guild Display Of Garments At 'The Castleton'

Over 4000 New Garments

WILL BE GIVEN TO LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS

Public Invited To Exhibit
At Hotel Ball Room
This Evening

Usually the scene of banquets, dinners or social events, the ballroom of The Castleton today presents an appearance entirely different. Piled high on tables in the room are blankets, woolen hose, woolen caps, underwear, trousers, dresses, winter boots and all manner of clothing. The occasion for it is the annual ingathering of the New Castle branch of the Needlework Guild of America, and the collection of clothing spells warmth and comfort to many little boys and girls during the coming winter months.

Last year the ingathering saw 3,832 garments contributed and distributed. This year seems to promise well over 4,000 garments, and all of them new, all of them useful, all of them of a higher quality than ever before.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

A local man boarded a street car the other day and showed the motorman one of the old street car tickets. He asked if it was still good. The motorman said it sure was. It was the first ticket of that kind Pa Newc had seen for many a day.

The wrought iron weather vane on top of the Lawrence county court house tower is one of the few remaining ones in New Castle, since that of the First Christian church was removed.

Miniature out-of-doors golf courses at this season are about as deserted as the city playgrounds, and are located in the basement of the hibernation now but will blossom forth again in activity next spring.

Detour signs are still up, directing East Washington street traffic how to get to the Butler road without traveling over the splendid newly paved Butler avenue.

Limestone is sprinkled along the New Castle-Elwood road, on the berm. If automobiles are inclined to sink in the mud, the crushed limestone is supposed to make it a little more difficult.

Pa Newc saw two men carrying limp pheasants, on East Washington street, the other day.

If you live on the East Side and have occasion to read books, borrow them at the East Side branch library and save the trouble of walking downtown. The East Side branch is open two days a week and is located in the basement of the Christ Evangelistic Lutheran church at the corner of Beckford and East Washington streets.

Pa Newc noticed a gentleman sewing grass on the Palmer property, way out East Washington street. Most of the foliage was taken from that property last Spring, when a

Stewart Summarizes Results Of Election As Seen From Capital

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Although it is too soon after the battle to analyze its results very understandingly, November fourth's election outcome appears to have been a thumping Democratic victory which, however, falls short of a so-called landslide of national proportions.

Considered separately, of course New York's vote was a landslide which among other things seems to have given Gov. Roosevelt a mid-dling effective stranglehold on the Democratic 1932 presidential nomination. There was campaign talk to the effect that while he doubtless would win gubernatorially he was losing ground presidentially. His majority knocks out that theory. Still, nationally considered, it is noteworthy that the Republicans seem to have lost no New York representative seats. This takes the landslide's edge off and is queer also. Illinois' Democratic vote, big as it was, loses a little of its psychological effect from the fact that its general trend was expected and that its size

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Democrats may or may not have won numerical control of both houses of the 72d Congress—it will take the official count in a handful of rural districts to determine—but the Hoover administration has lost all semblance of workable control in either chamber.

This was the outstanding fact confronting party leaders today as belated returns straggled in from yesterday's election, emphasizing the breadth and sweep of the Democratic gains and Republican reverses.

A tie in the Senate and a margin of one or two votes either way in the House appeared the most likely situation to evolve when all the returns are in and officially tabulated.

Still Counting Votes
With Kentucky's senatorial contest still undecided this morning, the Senate count stood 47-47 between the Republicans and Democrats, with one Farmer-Labor member, Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, holding the balance of power whichever way the Kentucky contest goes. By throwing his vote to the party which finally emerges with 48 members he will enable that party to organize the Senate, or by throwing it the other way he can precipitate a situation extremely

Predominant Note Of Crowd
At Mouth Of Blast-Torn
Mine Is Stoicism

By GEORGE E. DOYING

MILLFIELD, O., Nov. 6.—Pitiful scenes of sorrow, of grief and, above all, of a fatalistic stoicism—the aftermath of every mine disaster—were enacted again today at the entrance to the blast-torn Sunday Creek coal mine where at least eighty-seven men are believed to have lost their lives.

Mothers, fathers, relatives and friends, and tight-lipped fellow workers to the number of 2,000 surged close to the police lines as body after body, charred and disfigured, was brought up from the shaft.

Occasionally a cry of grief broke from the crowd as a wife, now widowed, recognized "her man" in a broken, limp body taken away and covered with canvas.

Stoicism Prevails
The predominant note of the crowd was its stoicism.

These people had known that in all probability just such a disaster as the present one would visit them some day. But—that was in the future. With fatalistic light-heartedness the men had descended day after day into the dim workings, putting away the thoughts of possible disaster.

And then it came. A terrific explosion—a blinding, numbing flash—and then the subterranean rumbling that told those in the mine, as it told their relatives and friends on the surface, that another major tragedy of the coal fields had come.

Six Still In Mine
Eighty-one bodies have been brought to the surface—borne tenderly by grizzled, brawny men, once fellow workers of those who perished in the blast or were consumed in the resulting holocaust.

Six more men are in the mine. They, too, are believed dead.

National guardsmen, summoned from Athens and Nelsonville, attempted to control the crowd which had grown to several thousand persons.

Gifford Pinchot maintained his ratio of victory over John M. Hemp-hill in the gubernatorial race by more than 67,000 votes today.

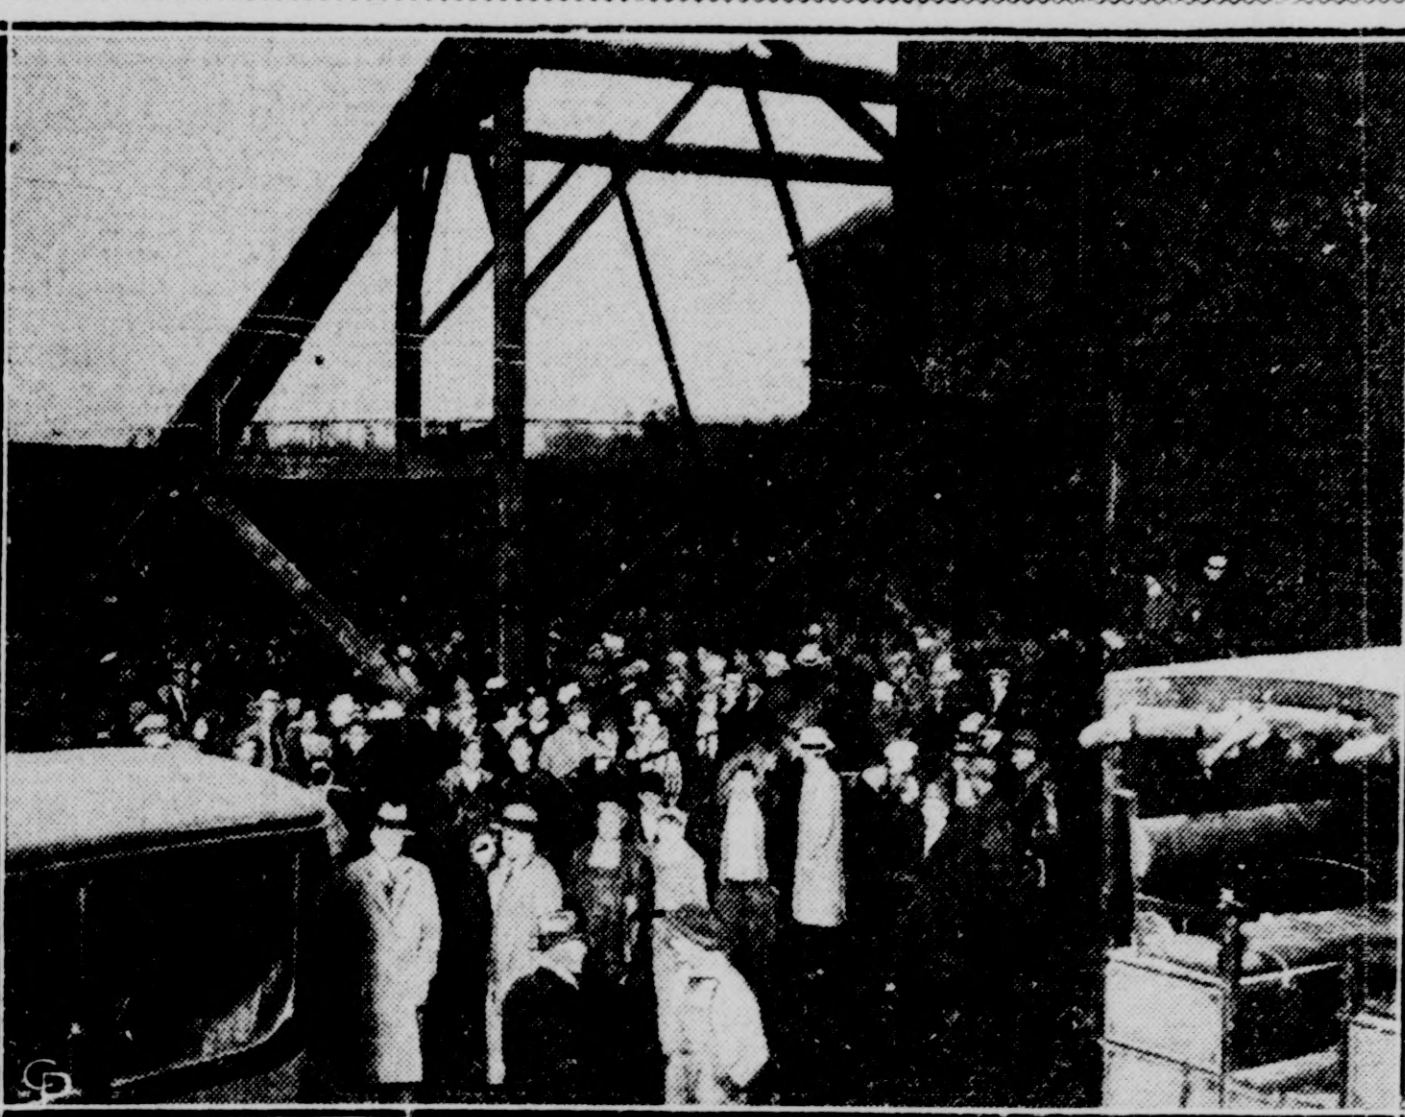

An International News Service tabulation of returns shortly after noon, with only 47 precincts missing, gave Pinchot a total lead of 67,033. A final checkup of the vote showed that despite the unfavorable weather conditions obtaining throughout the state on election day, more than two million Pennsylvanians went to the polls to decide the contest. Approximately 2,060,000 men and women exercised their franchise privilege.

Pinchot carried 61 of the state's 67 counties, losing only powerful Philadelphia and Erie, two of the key counties, in addition to Lehigh, Berks, Montgomery and Northampton.

Mrs. Harry Jacobs of the Har-lansburg road is in the New Castle hospital, suffering from a broken collar bone.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Jacobs was standing on a chair cleaning some woodwork about the window in her home, when she lost her balance and fell, striking her shoulder on a door knob as she came to the floor. It was thought her shoulder was badly hurt and she was removed to the hospital where it was found she had shattered the collar bone. She will be in the hospital for several days.

AS CROWDS WAITED WORD OF ENTOMBED MINERS

Here is a view outside the Sunday Creek mine tipple, north of Athens, O., as crowds of relatives and friends awaited word of the fate of 150 miners entombed in the depths of the shaft by two explosions. In the photo can be seen the waiting ambulances ready for relief work. Just after this photo was snapped the bodies of 23 miners, including W. E. Titus, president of the Sunday Creek company were brought to the surface.

Member Of Byrd's Polar Expedition Visitor In City

There was at least one chap in New Castle today to whom the snow flurry had no terror. After a recent experience of his, the weather here today would be balmy, and the snow he had not to be noticed. He was Lieutenant Thomas B. Mulroy, chief engineer for Admiral Richard E. Byrd on his trip over the North Pole and also to the South Pole. Lieutenant Mulroy also was chief engineer of the trip across the Atlantic to Bremen, but did not make the trip with the party.

He isn't an old man by twenty-five or thirty years. He is in his early thirties, is Mulroy, ruddy faced, pleasant countenance, and just a trifle hesitant about going too much into detail over his exploits for fear you might think he was putting on the dog.

Passenger Boat In Pacific,
Reports Rudder Gone

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 6.—The passenger steamer Northwestern of the Alaskan Steamship company was reported in distress early today two miles south of Cape Spencer on the north Pacific coast, according to a radio dispatch picked up here by the Merchants Exchange.

The Northwestern sent out an S. O. S. at 6:07 a. m., asking for immediate assistance. She reported her rudder gone and that she was drifting helplessly.

Cape Spencer is on the Alaskan coast near Juneau.

The coast guard cutter Haida from Seattle was reported going to the Northwestern's assistance.

The steamer was returning from Alaskan ports to Seattle when disabled. The Northwestern carries a crew of about 30 men. Number of passengers aboard was not known but it was believed the list would be small at this time of the year.

The Northwestern is a vessel of 3,094 gross tonnage and was built in Chester, Pa., in 1889.

MERCURY DROPS
TO AROUND 20

Accompanied by light snow flurries early this morning a cold wave gripped Pennsylvania today and continued to send the mercury down toward a predicted new low of 20, forecast for tonight.

With a wind that averaged almost 20 miles an hour the snow and cold registered a low temperature of 27 this morning, one degree above the season's lowest recorded during the cold wave on October 20.

Clear and cold was the forecast for the remainder of the day and possibly tomorrow.

At Oil City snow shovels and tire chains made their debut as residents in the locality were greeted with a seven-inch snow this morning. When the cold did not subside icy formations appeared on the highways leading out of the city.

Because the first snow of the cold season was only slight and fluffy and easily cleared, officials at the state highway branch at Franklin did not order out snow plows for the roads.

Party Of Officials On Inspec-

By CARL L. TURNER

MILLFIELD, O., Nov. 6.—After hours of search through the smoke and fire eaten passageways of the blast-torn Number Six mine of the Sunday Creek company here, a rescue crew emerged shortly after ten a. m. today with the body of the last known victim of the disastrous explosion that took the lives of 86 other miners.

The body of the blast-victim was hurried to an ambulance waiting at the mine entrance and hurried away to one of the temporary morgues that have been set up in the village of Athens, nine miles away.

Start Investigation
Immediately after the rescue squad its members weary and near prostration from fighting smoke and gas in their arduous search, had come out of the mine, officials of the United States Department of Commerce, the United Mine Workers of America and others entered the shaft to make a complete and thorough investigation of the disastrous explosion.

Although almost positive that the victim just recovered was the last of those to meet death in the tragedy, which is the worst in the history of Hocking Valley mining rescue crews were ordered to resume their search into every nook and cranny of the mine in case there should be any other victims.

Nineteen Rescued
Of the 106 men who were trapped in the mine when the horrible explosion let loose yesterday afternoon, clattering the passageways with debris and filling them with fire and smoke, only 19 were reached alive.

Their safe-being was due to the heroic work of John Dean, a mine foreman, who directed the men in bratticing off a section of the mine, 38 feet wide and 500 feet deep.

All of the 19 rescued were reported in critical conditions at a hospital in Athens today. Some of them were not expected to live. The nineteen, who had been entombed since yesterday afternoon, when the disastrous blast let loose, were taken from the mine alive shortly before daybreak this morning.

The 19 rescued alive were identified as Howard Davis, Floyd Ayres, James Norton, James Renaldo, Carl Pickering, Ralph Channell, Earl Hunter, Robert Cobb, Floyd Crabtree, Bernard Skinner, John Cevelo, Edward Clark, John Dean, Charles Honder, Chris Barker, Henry Fors-

Elks' Rulers In Dinner Session

Twelve Past Chiefs Present
Last Night To Talk
Plans For Winter

CAMPBELL HANDLES EVENING'S PROGRAM

Twelve past exalted rulers of the New Castle lodge of Elks, No. 69, participated in a get-together banquet held Wednesday evening in the lodge home's dining room, the first such function here in some time. Attendance was confined mostly to ex-rulers of the lodge.

Presiding as master of ceremonies and as chairman of arrangements was Ralph M. Campbell, president of the Past Exalted Rulers' Association of the lodge, under whose auspices the program took place.

A dinner at six o'clock opened the festivities, and a short discussion and business meeting followed. The leaders considered plans for coming winter events, outstanding of which is the eagerly looked forward to visit of National Grand Exalted Ruler Lawrence Rupp of Allentown. He plans to come here next January.

The rulers also decided to throw open the home of the lodge next Tuesday, Armistice Day, to all Legionnaires of the city. They will be welcomed at any time during the day, and special efforts are being made in their behalf.

A series of entertainments for the lodge have also been planned by the entertainment committee. It was announced last night. The wives of the Elks will be guests on different occasions.

Army, 200; St. Vincent de Paul, 40. There are many features of the ingathering; in fact, the entire thing is a feature, but here and there one sees collections that attract a little more attention. One of them is the display furnished by the graduating class of the home economics vocational class of the senior high school. This is a collection of layettes. Another is the knitted goods in one collection, all the garments being hand knit.

One-Day Display To view the ingathering it will be necessary to visit The Castleton today or this evening, as it will be dismantled late tonight and the garments distributed.

Since last year a number of new members have been added. After seeing last year's ingathering Mrs. W. T. Frushour, wife of the superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, gathered a group of women together and 63 garments resulted from their interest.

Membership in the Guild is a matter of low cost. There are no dues, no initiations, none of the usual detail of other organizations. All that is necessary is that the member contribute two or more garments each year, which are turned over to the local charitable institutions.

A business meeting of the branch is being held today, with an election of officers for the coming year being held.

You're the JUDGE

Miss Hilda Hedges went to the ticket office of a suburban station and requested a ticket to the city. The ticket agent presented the ticket, was paid, and Miss Hedges passed out onto the platform to await the train. Soon the ticket agent came running after her, shouting that she had given him a lead half-dollar. She denied it heatedly, whereupon he called her a vile name, grasped her by the arm and called loudly for a policeman to arrest her. There was no policeman at hand, but the agent held on to her nevertheless. After a while he released her.

Miss Hedges was shaken by this experience and so instead of waiting for the train she got off the platform, walked to the office of the nearest lawyer and instructed him to file suit immediately against the railroad for the slander and for the injury to her person.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision. (Decision will be found on Classified Page.)

big bite of the land was used for fill in work on the viaduct by Cascade park.

Pa Newc was asked to mention in the paper that the road from Cascade park to the city line is the crookedest in this part of the country. Pa Newc don't exactly agree, but mentions it just to appear agreeable.

Sometimes Pa Newc wonders if there are any windows in the city kept as clean as those of Benjamin Franklin junior high school. They always appear speckless.

Young Pa Newc took a peep into the large store house next to the Almira Home, the other day, and folks, you would be surprised to see how much stuff can be packed into one house! There were trunks and all sorts of furniture, large, small and indifferent. There were piles of rugs, window shades and wheel chairs. There were huge boxes, crates and old packages. The collection found its way there over a long stretch of years, Pa Newc would guess.

The roof is on the new Epworth M. E. church at Butler avenue and East Washington street now and the church exterior begins to look complete.

The reddish colored hedge just set out on the diamond was covered with skiffs of snow this morning, and certainly created a sight to marvel at.

At the Senior High school, they've inaugurated a novel contest, a book and movie event. In mimeographed stories handed out are hidden different book titles, and the object of the contest is for students to sense the titles as they read along. The library is sponsoring it.

There are a lot of hunting stories being circulated around, but none to Pa Newc's opinion is quite as entertaining as that told by Officer George Kennedy. It is about the rabbit he shot on Tuesday. The rabbit was as big as a buck-sheep and when the shot from Officer Kennedy's gun hit it, Mr. Bunny kicked up his heels and trotted away. The shot had bounced off and onto the ground. (If all rabbits get to be so large and tough they will become as annoying as the Red Plague!)

There was a real wintry aspect in the air today, with plenty of snowflakes in the air. Travelers coming in from Oil City reported an eight-inch fall of snow in that district.

The muskrat that makes its home under the East Washington street bridge doesn't mind this cold weather. It takes swims several times daily.

probably was partly attributable rather to Mrs. McCormick's shockingly bad political management than to any other cause.

Ohio about verifies predictions. Pennsylvania an Enigma.

Pennsylvania's result is not interpretable as meaning much of anything relative to national partisan politics.

One of the biggest surprises of the general situation is the comparative flabbiness of Dwight Morrow's victory in New Jersey. It is hard to tell yet just what it does imply. Anyway it somewhat punctures Morrow as a future presidential possibility.

Although the Democrats pretended that they simply wanted to make satisfactory gains, but were not especially eager to secure control of congress this year they really did hope that they would do the latter.

A majority of their own is better for them than control in alliance with the Republican progressives.

From President Hoover's standpoint, however, a hostile congressional alliance is as bad as a Democratic majority—maybe worse for a bloc of nominally Republican lawmakers whom he cannot influence.

The tariff by that name is not indicated as having weighed heavily in the fight, which was natural, since it essentially is a dull issue to the average voter—all incomprehensible figures.

Economics Weighed Heavily. Economics in the form of the depression obviously did weigh greatly.

In one respect, indeed, it undoubtedly was the decisive issue. That is, in the eyes of everything else, the G. O. P. surely would have cleaned up much as usual if prosperity had still prevailed.

The strong wet trend was unmistakable, but not overwhelming except in spots. It was sufficient to insure that it will count enormously in 1932, but not to the extent of overshadowing all other issues unless the wave rises still higher in the meantime. A New Yorker probably would dispute this diagnosis, but he would not be making allowances for sentiment the country over.

Personal unpopularity of the Hoover regime plainly had a marked effect in the voting, much as friends of the administration may resent the statement. The White House endorsed just two candidates—Morrow, and he ran noticeably behind what was expected of him—and B. Carroll Reece for congress in the first Tennessee district, and he was beaten. A presidential endorsement clearly is a political liability, all else being equal, in the present state of public opinion. It is reasonable to believe that it counted in many other ballistics where it was not formally given, but was only sensed by the voters.

To summarize the election results, it was a powerful movement, but not an avalanche.

There are a lot of hunting stories being circulated around, but none to Pa Newc's opinion is quite as entertaining as that told by Officer George Kennedy. It is about the rabbit he shot on Tuesday. The rabbit was as big as a buck-sheep and when the shot from Officer Kennedy's gun hit it, Mr. Bunny kicked up his heels and trotted away. The shot had bounced off and onto the ground. (If all rabbits get to be so large and tough they will become as annoying as the Red Plague!)

STAR LORE THE INVENTIVE MIND OF IMMANUEL KANT

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter Immanuel Kant (1724-1804) was 'One of the greatest philosophers of all times.'

He was a pioneer thinker in the field of astronomy and invented a Nebular hypothesis accounting for the creation of the solar system after which Laplace put it into scientific form. Kant's theory had no rings thrown off from a central whirling body (the sun), but nuclei instead developed at their respective distances from the center.

It was in motion by the attracting forces of the sun, but turned into circular paths by "repelling forces." Kant illustrates the repelling forces with the elasticity of vapors.

find where danger lurks, where adventure beckons, and where romance can be found.

Lieutenant Mulroy was in charge of all oil and gasoline supplies for the polar expeditions and as you might imagine, had considerable of a job seeing that they didn't freeze.

"We pre-heated the engines before they went out," said he, "which meant that before a plane took off from the snow landing fields of Little America, torches were held under the engine until it was warm.

After every flight the oil was drained out so it wouldn't freeze in that frigid land. Mulroy did not make the flight over the pole but was at the base in Little America.

The watch he wears is the one worn by Bert Balchen the pilot of the Floyd Bennett over the South Pole. It was given to Lieutenant Mulroy after that memorable trip over the southern pole of the world and is valued by him for its memories.

Going Back. Not satisfied with having been at the two extremities of the earth, Lieutenant Mulroy is thinking of going back, for Byrd says he will make the South Pole trip again in 1932. Right now Mulroy isn't so sure that he wants to go, but when the supplies start piling on the deck of the ship, and the heavy clothing is being issued for the pole voyage, when the dogs begin barking as the ship leaves New York, you'll probably find that Mulroy among those present, for he was born with a bad attack of wanderlust.

"When we do go back," he said, "we'll probably take a larger plane, large enough to carry a dog team and supplies, for if Byrd and the party had been forced down on the trip over the pole, if an oil line had frozen, or a storm had crippled their plane, they would have been lost."

With several friends Lieutenant Mulroy spent the night in the Castleton, Wednesday.

PITIFUL SCENES ARE ENACTED AT MOUTH OF MINE

cheated death by escaping through an open air shaft of the mine, returned to the scene of the tragedy which had claimed their fellow workmen and volunteered for rescue work.

State officials organized the work and directed the activities of recovering the bodies of the victims.

Tearful Scenes. Officials this morning began to check the employment list of the mine in an effort to determine the names of the dead.

Recovered bodies were taken to the temporary morgue in the village. Attempts at identification were not begun for several hours.

Many tearful scenes were enacted throughout the night at the morgue which was heavily guarded by National guardsmen.

One old man, bowed with age and grief, pitifully begged for admittance as he made the rounds in search of an only son, who he said, "was working on that shift."

"I know he's there. Please let me in," he cried in vain.

Small children, not quite realizing the situation, caught the count of the Red Cross station. Many of them had been made orphans by the terrible tragedy.

NINETEEN MINERS RESCUED ALIVE; EIGHTY-SIX DEAD

bach, Clifford Watson, Harold Phillips and Fielding Willis.

Foreman Saves Men. Dean, a mine foreman, was credited with having saved the lives of the 19 men by leaving them in a brattice off a section of the mine, 38 feet wide and 500 feet deep. The mine foreman was the only one of those injured who was in a serious condition.

All of those who escaped alive were removed to an Athens hospital. They were taken on trains from the mine to Athens station, where they were met by ambulances.

Robert Cobb, one of the rescued, told of the experiences of himself and his companions, after the explosion had ripped the mine shaft.

"We were working near the center of the mine when a muffled roar told us there had been an explosion," Cobb related. "We erected shelter on brattices, walling ourselves in a small room."

"We realize that the harder we worked the more oxygen we would consume of the limited supply in the room, but it was either that or leave ourselves open to the deadly monoxide gas."

"The air was very poor when rescuers reached us; we couldn't have held out much longer."

Peter McKinney of Athens, another mine foreman, was to have joined the ill-fated party of company officials and coal buyers who entered the shaft on an inspection tour. He was saved from the death they met. However, because he was late in reaching the mine and the party had already entered the shaft.

The president of the Sunday Creek Company, W. E. Titus, Columbus, vice president, Robert Lancaster Nelsonville, an engineer, and Robert Parsons and Joe Bergen, both of Zanesville, coal buyers, were among the victims who died from monoxide gas.

Most of the bodies that were recovered from the mine were found in good condition.

Dean's condition was particularly critical, according to field physicians who were attending the injured men. He was suffering from the effects of the intense heat that permeated the mine when fire, following the explosion, whipped through the passageways.

The coroner's inquest over the bodies of the blast victims was to be held either late today or tomorrow, it was said.

While officials pressed a further search and an investigation identification of the blast victims was being made through a check with the Sunday Creek company's payroll. The bodies were in good condition and little trouble was being encountered in making the identifications.

What promises to interest every senior high school book lover is the novel book jamboree contest just inaugurated by the school's library and department of English. The contest is different from others conducted heretofore and continues until December 16.

Miss Suzanne Young, librarian, explaining the chief objective, said that it consists of a lengthy story made up of book titles, a copy of which will be given to every student who participates. In the story are hidden 114, more or less prominent, book titles. The idea is to see what student recognizes the greatest number of titles.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Older Child Must Never Be Spanked

Whipping Permissible To Teach Wee Tots Safety Habits

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

One always is likely to be misunderstood. Occasionally I have referred approvingly to "the good old-fashioned spank."

Writes an Illinois mother: "I read with interest your article, 'Cultivating Restraints in Children' in which you agree that the good old-fashioned spanking on the child's bare bottom is about the most effective means. I recently was obliged to resort to this means of punishment of my three daughters. Some time ago my three girls, whose ages are 14, 16 and 17 years were busily engaged in smoking cigarettes in their room just before retiring for the night.

"This did not meet with my approval, and after giving them a good lecture, on the evils of cigarette smoking I promised them a good spanking as their punishment. They pleaded with me and promised that they would not do it again. I then decided not to whip them on their promise.

"Hardly two weeks later, on returning home about 9 o'clock, I noticed a cigarette odor, and on investigating found that they had again been smoking. I then gave them the padding which I intended to give them the previous time. The three were sent to my room, turned across the edge of the bed and in turn each was given as many slaps as they were years old with a short strap. Do you not think that they deserved this spanking after lying to me when I refrained from whipping them the first time? I promised them twice the amount if I caught them again."

Answer: When I read your letter, mother, my heart sank pretty low. "And that is what she thinks I advocate," I said. "Ye gods! What have I done? Are more children being beaten just because I am supposed to have said what I have not?"

I have been careful to say that I approved of selective spanking only of very young children, as a means to teach safety habits, and the general meaning of "no." I tried to show that this could be accomplished before the child is four or five, after which time physical pain as punishment ought to be entirely abolished; that as the child grows older, commands, and therefore all punishments, can well be diminished until they almost or entirely disappear. I tried to make it clear that as soon as the little child accepts "no" as final and recognizes authority, we parents can the more successfully build up happy relationships with him, enjoying his company, sharing with him his joys and sorrows, being a pal of his.

Two of my children are adolescents. I just could not imagine myself attempting to spank them. All the beautiful relationships and confidences, all the mutual trusts, considerations and endearments, all the exchanges of smiles and tender communications with love in our voices would, it seems to me, vanish like a block of ice before the August sun.

Now, concerning smoking. I hope my children will not smoke. It's a dirty, filthy wasteful habit for any one. Suppose I had been in your place and had found my children smoking. Shocked I surely would have been, and I might have lost my head. But if I had been as reasonable as I think I am now, I should have told them calmly that I wished they would not smoke, and I should have used all the winsomeness at my command to attract them to my wishes.

JENNY... eminent creator of Paris fashions says:

"The sheerest lingerie is safe if laundered with Palmolive Beads"

Agreeing with the Committee of 17... Jenny and 32 famous French designers declare Palmolive Beads "Ideal for washing fine fabrics"

JENNY! The name calls up visions of garments of chic and elegance.

Mme. Jenny has the rare distinction of having been awarded the ribbon of the Legion d'Honneur, in recognition of her "eminent services" in the creation and inspiration of a French art.

Her name ranks among the real leaders of the great French dressmaking houses. In her workrooms are silks and chiffons worth thousands of dollars. Lingerie—fine as sheer veiling! Laces of incomparable beauty.

You may be sure Jenny has given the most serious attention to the care of these exquisite garments... and especially to their proper cleansing. She says:

"Lingerie safe if washed with Palmolive Beads"

"Coarse, harsh soaps—scalding hot water—bits of soap left after washing—all these are fatal risks for delicate fabrics.

"But the sheerest lingerie is safe if laundered with Palmolive Beads. They dissolve completely in lukewarm or cool water, and leave no soap to dry in the fabric and rot or break the threads.

"I recommend Palmolive Beads for washing even the daintiest lingerie and sheerest fabrics."

So different from other soaps

Many women are unable to believe a soap can be radically different from all others. Madam—we ask you to try just one box of Palmolive Beads, if that is your view!

Palmolive Beads are really beads of soap... hollow... tissue thin. They dissolved at 80 to 83 degrees, the safe temperature for washing fine silks... and full 20 degrees lower than most soaps require.

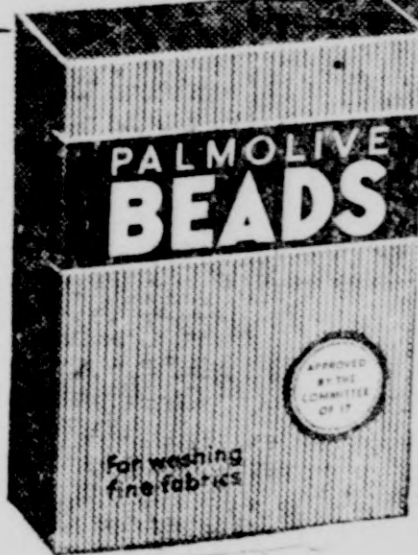

Palmolive Beads are made of olive and palm oils. For more than 40 years silk makers have trusted their precious skeins to no other type of soap. It is the finest you could use. And never before available for everyone. Try Palmolive Beads today. Begin now to give your delicate garments the care they should have. Your dealer has Palmolive Beads.

Peter's Adventures

THE BATTLE BEGINS

The taunts of the Red Ants were too much for the Black Ants. Weaklings indeed! Shame that they should ever have lived to be called that. The Red Ants might be stronger than the black ants, but the Black Ants were the more clever. Let them advance, they would show them!

"Come on, you thieves and bullies!" In their turn the Black Ants shouted insults. Destroy you we say, take us slaves? Never! We will teach you a thing or two, Red-heads!

"Advance!" ordered Commander. he brave Black Ants obeyed and threw themselves upon the advancing forces. Peter, peeping out the door, was scared half out of his wits. He had never heard such a hubbub nor seen such confusion. To him and to Busy it seemed that the whole ant world was at each other's throats. The ground was rocked and for a moment Peter wondered if the ant hill would cave in and swallow them up.

"Better to go down in fair fight than to be buried alive!" shrieked Peter to Busy. "Let's get out of this hill into the open. Besides we may be needed out there."

Busy, however, shook her head. She had been detailed as a scout within the hill, and whatever might come she did not intend to desert her post. Her duty was to stay right where she was and at risk of her own life to do her bit to guard the babies and their nurses. Fortunately, however, for her own and Peter's peace of mind, the rocking ceased, and the din of the battle grew dimmer. Evidently the Black Ants were driving the ene y back.

Busy turned briskly to the boy. "Now, young human, is the time

"NOW YOUNG HUMAN IS THE TIME FOR YOU TO MAKE GOOD YOUR PROMISE. ARE YOU READY?" for you to make good your promise. Are you ready?"

Next: "Peter Keeps His Promise."

Item Recalls New Castle To Former Resident

T. J. McMichael Writes To News From San Bernardino, California

An item in the Los Angeles Evening Express recalled to T. J. McMichael of San Bernardino, Calif., that New Castle is still on the map in spite of the fact that Mr. McMichael has not lived here for some time.

The article in question related to William Hartzell, 90 years of age, securing a license to hunt. The letter addressed to J. P. Rantz, manager of The News, follows: "Friend Jake:

In looking over the evening paper, I notice where New Castle is still on the map, listed with London, Paris, Moscow, etc. Inclosed find the clipping. Kind of made me homesick. Wish I could drop around for a few days and meet the old bunch. Here is the Hon. Fred and Harry Bell and Bart Richards. Give them my regards.

"I hear that business is picking up around there. It is not any good out here, but they say it is much better than the East, and they expect a boom after January 1. Regards to friends as ever."

BALTIMORE & OHIO

Bo Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Variety being the spice of life, what a highly-flavored existence the average auctioneer enjoys!

A recent newspaper advertisement of an impending auction sale listed among the articles that were to fall under the hammer, 36 kitchen chairs, one dozen rubber plants, a washing machine, six collection baskets, a set of volumes entitled "The Heroes of History," and one church pulpit.

When the gentleman who directs Prohibition "enforcement" activities in New York first took office he said in effect that his efforts would be directed against the big, powerful, wholesale agencies that violate the law. Cheap, petty and spectacular raids, he assured us, would be eliminated.

If any big, powerful, invalidators of Volstead have gone to jail since the worthy Brother has been in office, they must have been smuggled into the can while the rest of us were looking the other way.

But there has been no surcease of funny little Gilbert and Sullivan raids. Several days ago the philosophic calm of several thousand Bowery bums was shattered by a descent of Volstead Vigilantes on the "shock houses" down there. And that spectacular piece of hokum was to be followed by a newly opened Wild Oats Casino.

Outside the excitement occasioned in newspaper circles by both raids nothing much happened in either case.

One of the patrons of Miss Guinan said to me afterward:

"Ten minutes—maybe a quarter of an hour, and the whole thing was over. The Vigilantes copped a few punts of Laughing Water and pinched a few poor, benighted waiters. 'Tex' slipped out and we all went on from where we'd left off. The whole thing was nothing but a little, good, clean Prohibition fun."

MOST VERSATILE.

Dr. William E. Aughinbaugh, guiding genius of The Explorers' Club may be classed as the happiest and most versatile of Tammany Town's numerous raconteurs. The Doc is one of those robust virile, vibrant, tangible personalities whose absolutely normal eye flashes with a suppressed Celtic twinkle. Ireland is mixed up somewhere in his cosmos. He's never at a loss in his company. He always has something to say and he knows how to say it in a fascinating fashion. Even his pauses are brilliant. Sometimes the key coloring is gloomy, with the faintest of Rabelaisian tinge, but as a rule there is too much action, spirit, and what Fernand J. J. Merckx calls "verve" in the average Aughinbaugh recital for gloom to perch long on the banners of the narrator.

At the portals of his club the other afternoon The Doctor was halted by a tall, sandy gentleman of military carriage who clicked his heels, saluted and delivered himself as follows:

"Colonel, I regret the necessity of informing you, sir, that, due to the exigencies of circumstance you have been designated to buy my luncheon."

The Doctor never batted an eyelash. He, too, clicked his heels, and in crisp, military fashion made answer to the stranger:

"Sergeant, need I remind you of the penalty fixed by army regulations, attending your addressing your superior officer, unsolicited, on such a subject?"

A second time the seedy stranger saluted:

"My error, Colonel!" he said, and about facing, hid him thence.

WOUNDED VANITY.

The Doctor who is the most generous of men, in recounting this little yarn, felt that some explanation of his procedure was in order.

"I wasn't ungenerous," he said. "I called him 'Sergeant' when I might have designated him 'Corporal.'"

Still I looked unconvinced, whereupon he added the final Aughinbaugh touch:

"I suppose you would have given him a quarter? Well, maybe I would have to—if he'd called me 'General' instead of 'Colonel.'"

There's too great a distance between "General" and "Colonel." By Generosity could have spanned the distance; but Generosity, you know, goes hand in hand with Vanity that could not make the leap."

The lyrically famous sidewalks of New York on which Maimie Rourke once "tripped a light fantastic," are today nothing but so many robust ruins.

Maimie Rourke has long since gone the way to all flesh. If she were still using the sidewalks of New York, doubtless she'd "trip" as of yore; but instead of doing the "light fantastic," her feet would slide in opposite directions and she'd probably break her neck.

Primitive Church To Begin Revival

A revival campaign will begin Sunday in the Maitland Memorial Primitive Methodist church, corner South Mill and Maitland streets, with the pastor, Rev. W. C. Tyrrell, in charge.

There will be no special evangelists brought in for the campaign, but the work will be done by local workers, with ministers from the community assisting and speaking at the services.

Rev. W. C. Tyrrell will open the series and Rev. Charles Whetsell of the Nazareth church will speak Tuesday evening of next week.

Rev. Slocum of Ellwood City will conduct the Sunday afternoon service and all song services will be in charge of J. Richardson.

FLASHERS ARE PLACED

Installation of automatic flashing lights at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing over the Perry highway at Millburn, Mercer county, was completed by railroad workmen on Wednesday. The signals will give additional protection to the cross-over.

VITALITY IS LOW AMONG WORKERS AT FOUR O'CLOCK

Fatigue During This Zero Hour Can be Overcome by Sugar

Finishing the day's work "dead tired" is neither wise nor necessary. Everybody knows that a fatigued system is readily susceptible to the common ills. To maintain vitality during the last half of the day is therefore essential, not only for the sake of health but efficient work.

One of the simplest ways to combat fatigue is eating a food or drinking a beverage that contains refined sugar. Candy, ice cream, cookies and cakes are ideal in this respect. Best of all, they can be bought readily and cheaply everywhere.

Medical men have made many experiments with workers and sugar foods in mid-afternoon and have found the results most satisfactory. The sugar quickly nourishes the body without taxing the digestive system. When the body is nourished in this way, fatigue disappears.

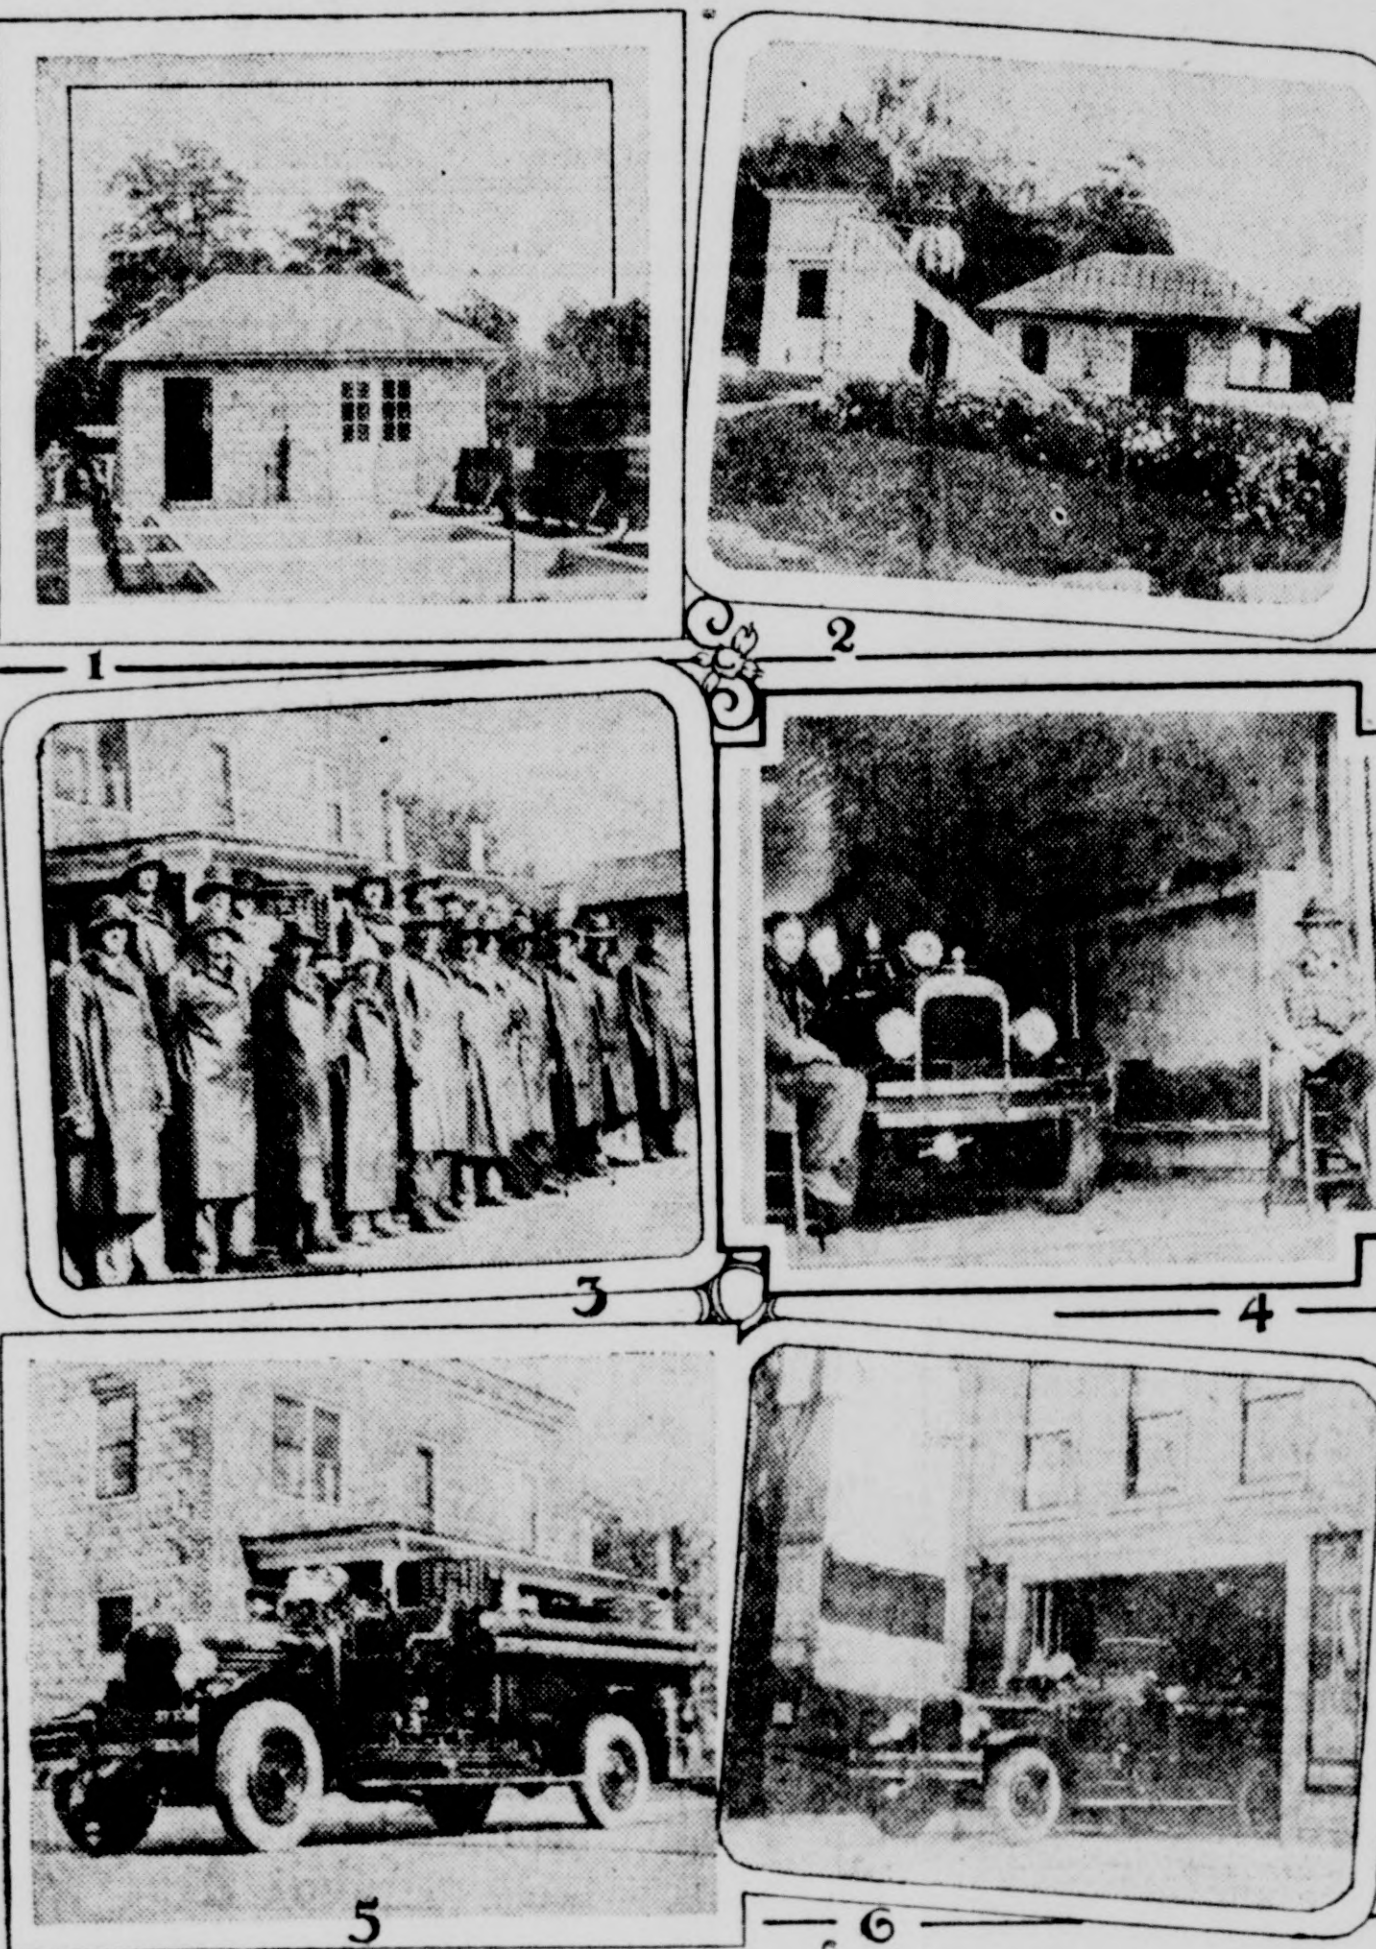

Such sweet snacks as those previously mentioned can be kept in one's desk and eaten while at work. For a sweet beverage, a glass of water containing sugar—the athlete's cocktail—is most invigorating. Many famous athletes drink this prior to a hard game. Most foods are more delicious with refined sugar. The Sugar Institute.

New Wilmington Boasts Civic Improvements

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 6.—This small town, home of Westminster College, has within two years added a number of facilities for health and protection of its citizens which some larger towns and cities do not have.

Filmore Campbell, town burgess, W. R. Anderson, borough superintendent, and councilmen W. J. Stevenson, Clyde Monroe, Daniel McQuiston, James Pitzer, Stewart Price, C. C. McCrumb, and S. E. Calhoun have been untiring in their efforts to promote civic improvements.

Two years ago was completed a $17,000 sewage disposal plant which

CONTROL OF CONGRESS IS STILL DOUBTFUL AS RESULT OF ELECTIONS

puzzling and uncomfortable to the leaders.

Senator Shipstead has always pursued a course of absolute independence as between the two major parties. He votes as often with the Republicans as with the Democrats, and vice versa. He has now been thrust into a spotlight such as no senator in history has ever occupied.

Quite Complicated
The situation in the House was just about as complicated this morning.

The Democrats appear to have elected 216 members, the Republicans 214, the Farmer-Labor party one, with four contests still out and undecided. It takes 218 to control the House. Thus, if the Democrats win two of the contests still undecided they apparently will be able to organize the House, depose Speaker Nick Longworth and take over the chairmanships of the important committees.

In the end it is not improbable that the Republicans will be permitted to organize both Houses of the 72nd Congress, quite irrespective of the final count, if a way can be found for them to do so without the Democrats appearing to shirk the task.

Control Is Lost
Not a few Democratic leaders are in favor of this solution. For the Democrats to organize one House, or both, under the circumstances, would place them in the position of having taken on legislative responsibility without the majorities necessary to effect a program, and without the sympathetic co-operation with the executive branch of the government that is so necessary to efficient performance.

This would constitute a responsibility that many far-seeing Democrats wish to avoid, particularly on the eve of the Presidential campaign of 1932. They would rather permit the Republicans to do the organizing, accept the implied responsibility and remain themselves in a position to enforce their will in conjunction with the insurgent Republicans on questions of major importance.

Without Parallel
In any event, the administration has lost anything like effective control of either branch of Congress. That is the main point.

The situation today with respect to the 72d Congress is without parallel in the political history of the country.

Probably the nearest thing to it is found in the election of 1910, when the Taft administration, in mid-term, lost the House and almost lost the Senate. This was followed in 1912 by the election of a Democratic Congress—an historical precedent that was being cited by Democrats everywhere today.

Oddly enough, fate may decide to take a hand in the involved situation and relieve some of the perplexity of the leaders.

The Congress elected on Tuesday will not assemble, under ordinary circumstances, until December of 1931, 13 months hence. In 13 months many things may happen—members may die or resign, and members of the opposite political faith take their places. With so much arithmetic importance attaching to a single member, the death of one or more members may completely change the situation in the next year. The mortality rate among senators is notably high, for they are men, for the most part, of advanced years and sedentary habits.

Another element which enters into the Senate calculations is the attitude of Senator-Elect and Governor-in-Fact Huey P. Long of Louisiana. He is governor of his state with two more years to serve. He has announced he does not intend to resign his state post and leave Louisiana and his program to "his enemies."

Long Refuses.
So long as the Louisiana executive chooses to occupy the governor's chair he cannot qualify for the senate. There is a constitutional provision that a member of congress cannot at the same time hold other office.

Consequently, unless Gov. Long changes his mind—as he has been urged to do by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York—the Democrats may still fall one shy of the strength necessary to organize Roosevelt telegraphically Long, urging him to drop his governorship, but "Huey" happens to be a young man of forceful ideas and complete independence regarding such matters.

The situation is filled with such uncertainties and bizarre possibilities. It will require time to unravel it, and it may undergo several chameleon-like changes before the first Monday in December of 1931, when the congress elected on Tuesday assemblies in Washington to be sworn.

But, irrespective of what may happen, the fact stood forth crystal-clear today that President Hoover is in an unenviable position in his relations with Capitol Hill from now on.

Chastened Congress.

A chastened and defeated congress, filled with resentful "lame ducks" returns to Washington in four weeks. Many of those defeated members attribute their defeat to the national administration—its non-demonstrated unpopularity with the masses, the failure of Mr. Hoover to take a more active part in the campaign, the "aloofness" of the White House in things affecting the party interest, etc.

A defeated politician can always find something on which to blame his misfortune. Hence, the congress assembling three weeks from next Monday will be more independent and insurgent than ever, and more disdainful of administration influences. And when this congress goes into retirement next March it will be succeeded by one which was elected as a measure of rebuke to the administration—and which probably will act accordingly. It is not a situation in which many executives would care to be placed, and particularly not one of Mr. Hoover's sensitiveness to opposition and criticism.

Roosevelt Is Strong.
It is undeniable that out of Tuesday's great eruption, the figures of

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York stands forth as the leading speculative possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932.

Any man that can carry New York is a possibility, and any man that can carry it by the appalling figure of 700,000 is outdoing even "Al" Smith by several leaps and jumps.

The magnitude of Roosevelt's victory almost obscured the fact that down in Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie shattered all precedent by being re-elected governor for the fourth consecutive time.

May Open North Street Saturday

It is possible that North street, between East street and Neshaanock avenue, will be open to traffic Saturday, although as yet this is not a certainty, according to F. F. Miller, city engineer.

Miller stated that laying of brick repaving is progressing today. Employers are employing a torch to make it possible to heat the asphalt filler which is being poured between the brick.

Benefit Game May Be Played

Mayor William H. Gillespie stated today that he has been negotiating with high school athletic officials for the purpose of New Castle high playing a post-season game to aid children who are in want of food here. He said he had been invited by Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner to attend a meeting of the athletic council next week.

Northwestern Counties Council Of V. F. W. To Meet

Delegates From Posts In Northwestern Section Coming
On Armistice Day

One of the features of the coming Armistice Day celebration in New Castle next Tuesday, will be the meeting of the Northwestern Counties Council of the V. F. W., which will be held at the Castleton during the afternoon of Tuesday.

Announcement to this effect has been received by District Commander James A. Bell from Commander Benjamin Ralsky of Bradford, Pa. Commander Ralsky in his letter stated that he has visited a majority of the posts who are members of the Council and the prevailing opinion was to hold their meeting in this city.

This will bring added representation of district ex-service men to the great Armistice Day celebration next week.

As the meeting will be of great importance to the Posts and Council, a full representation of delegates has been urged by Commander Ralsky and in the neighborhood of 50 V. F. W. men from the upper section of the state is expected here on that day.

Religion And State Theme For Rabbi

Rabbi Menkes To Discuss Timely Subject On Friday Night

In a previous sermon on Church and State Rabbi Menkes touched upon the vital reason that makes it undesirable for any organized church to take a direct and active part in the making of laws in our great Republic.

But there is a distinction between church and religion and the question arises: "Shall Religion enter into the spirit of our government, and what means should it employ?" "What are the beneficial influences which religion can and should contribute to advance the weal of our country?" "What great debt do the churches owe to our government?" "How can the church help the State?" These questions will be discussed by the Rabbi at the regular Friday evening services at Temple Israel tomorrow night at 8:00 o'clock. After the services there will be a Social Hour with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Davis acting as hosts.

Saturday morning services at 10:30 a. m.

Plenty Of Rest Is Important In Gaining

All Fattening Cures Fail
With Some Thin
Folks

By LOGAN CLENDENING M. D.
In discussing "fattening cures" this week I have perhaps over-emphasized the difficulties. This has been done deliberately, for there is no profit in holding out glittering prospects which cannot be realized.

It may as well be admitted that there are some underweight people with whom all our fattening cures fail. The only comfort that can be held out to them is that they are probably going to live thin to be ninety or a hundred years old.

For many others a considerable gain in weight is possible. The general plan for such cures has four parts:

1. Be sure that your underweight condition is constitutional and not the result of any organic disease. Have a physical examination to eliminate the three common organic diseases associated with underweight: tuberculosis, diabetes and thyroid gland activity.

2. Rest. You need much more rest than the average individual. Get eight to ten hours rest in bed every night, whether you sleep or not.

Rest on a bed or couch at full length is especially important after meals. It not only allows more complete absorption of food, but also raises the stomach, keeps it from hanging and helps it to empty itself. Lie half the time on the right side. This will give the stomach the best chance to empty itself.

3. Exercise for the abdominal muscles. This strengthening of the abdominal muscles will improve the position and hence the tone of the entire digestive tract.

Such exercises are:
No. 1. Lie flat on your back on the floor, hands outstretched above head. Rise to sitting position, and then forward and touch fingers to toes.

No. 2. Raise right leg (keep it straight) as far as you can; then left leg, then both together.

No. 3. Raise legs and do the pedaling (bicycle) movement.

No. 4. Drawing your knees up, clasp your hands around them, rock back and forth as far as you can, sideways also.

No. 5. Roll over on your abdomen, first on the right side and then on the left.

No. 6. Lie on the abdomen, clasp hands behind the back and raise the head and chest as far as you can. Your meals should be:

1. Small in amount, at each meal.
2. Nutritious.
3. Easily digested.
4. Dry in character.

You should not drink much water or other fluid at meal time.

Shingling of the steeple of the First Christian church is nearing completion and it will be but a short time until the steeple-jacks place the last shingle and copper nail.

Seventeen and one half squares of asbestos shingles will cover the entire steeple, according to Carl Becker, who is supervising the work. A "square" means 5 shingles.

Men who are doing the steeple overhauling work get on the steeple through small openings or windows in the clock chamber. They seat themselves on a swing and are pulled to the top by a pulley rope operated from below.

CHARGE OF MEETING

Post Makes Final Plans For Participating In Armis-

bration

Plans for bringing the annual state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to New Castle will be gotten under way at once, it was decided at the meeting of the Harry
L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

In a letter to the post, Department Commander Aaron Gardner of Williamsport, reminded the post officers that the Council of Administration would meet in Harrisburg on November 23, at which time definite decision would be made as to the holding of the 1931 encampment.

Commander T. John Stoner announced that a meeting of the committee representing the post would be called at an early date next week, when actual plans will be gotten under way. It is hoped to secure the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and other Civic organizations in this enterprise, which would bring approximately 10,000 ex-service men to New Castle for three days next August.

Last night's meeting was the first to be presided over by Commander Stoner, and was one of the finest meetings of the year.

Commander Stoner announced the appointment of Charles E. Allen as Post Adjutant for the ensuing year, and of John L. Rue as chairman of the membership committee.
Others on this important committee are: Comrades John Merritt, William R. Evans, Clarence A. Leslie,
Frank C. Connors, and George Thompson.

Report on the coming Armistice Day celebration was rendered by Retiring Adjutant Ralph Montgomery, in which he stated that plans have been completed for the coming event
by General Chairman Louis B.
Round and his committee, and urged the attendance of all veterans at the celebration.

The matter of holding an essay contest of a patriotic nature in the schools of the city during the coming year was brought up for discussion and was held over until the next meeting because of the press of activities which must be taken care of during the next few weeks.

It is planned to hold such a contest and to offer cups to the winners.

Comrade Guy J. Wadlinger spoke in behalf of the coming Armistice Day celebration and urged all members to be out in uniform, stating that in his opinion, the coming celebration would be the greatest ever held in New Castle, and that the members owed their attendance to the fine spirit of cooperation and loyalty which has been out forth by the General Committee.

District Commander James A. Bell asked that the members of the post turn out in a representative manner for the trip to Rochester next Wednesday, November 12, when a joint installation service of the Rochester Post and their Ladies Auxiliary will be held. The members of the Ladies Auxiliary are planning to attend this meeting with a large delegation, having been strongly represented at the joint installation service in Butler on Tuesday evening of this week.

Says Unsettled Conditions
Make Another World War
"Not Impossibility"

Choosing peace as his topic, Principal Frank L. Burton of Ben Franklin Junior high school told a pre-Armistice Day "peace meeting" of the Ben Franklin Junior Hi-Y in the Y. M. C. A. banquet room Wednesday evening that "with numerous revolutions and much fighting in South America and with the unsettled conditions now existing in Europe another world war is not an impossibility."

The talk was preceded by a banquet. Solomon Waldman, president of the Hi-Y and Dan Raccipio, advisor, were present. Others in attendance were Mrs. Burton, "Y"
Boys' Work Director Thomas and Miss Agnes Webster.

Principal Burton said in part:
"About 12 years ago there ended perhaps the bloodiest and most devastating war in history. When it started I was teaching in Mt. Jackson and I well recall how we talked about it in our history classes, how we felt that it would soon be over and that all America would do would be to furnish food and money. It was not long, however, before some of us who had talked so freely were on our way overseas to face the shot and shell, the gas and raking machine fire.

"With numerous revolutions and much fighting in South America and with the unsettled conditions now existing in Europe another world war is not an impossibility."

"I have always thought the way to assume peace is to have people think peace—that peace is a state of mind. If we keep thinking war we will have war; if we keep thinking peace we have peace. If we talk peace, sing peace and pray for peace we will have peace. If we do this and other countries do the same,
there will be no more war.

"Peaceful attitudes spread in ever widening circles, like the waves where a pebble is dropped into the sea. We are told that these waves keep ever spreading until they break on the shores of the farthest country in the world.

Gas Revenue Grows Despite Drop In Sales

Almost Million Less Gallons Of Gasoline Sold In
First Half Of 1930

NET TAX IS OVER MILLION GREATER

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent of The New Castle News
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Pennsylvania filling stations sold less gasoline during the first half of 1930 than during the corresponding period of 1929, but the State's four-cent gasoline tax yielded $1,166,994 more to the commonwealth's coffers than the three-cent tax yielded in the first six months of last year, according to reports compiled by the bureau of public roads of the department of agriculture.

After deducting certain exemptions amounting to $93,084 from the taxes assessed tax, the net tax on the sales of gasoline for motor vehicle fuel in the Keystone State during the first six months of the present year amounted to $1,952,587 as against a net tax of $1,785,596 collected during the first half of 1929 under the three-cent levy.

Delinquent taxes of previous years with fines and penalties, yielded an additional $187,478 making a total of $1,614,065 for this year's period. The net amount of gasoline taxed and used by motor vehicles in Pennsylvania from the first of this year to June 30 was only 398,814,666 gallons, as against 492,853,200 gallons for the same period of last year.

The grand total earning on gasoline taxes in Pennsylvania this year up to June 30 was dispersed as follows: $170,024 for collection cost; $12,475,968 for construction and maintenance of State rural roads; $1,994,073 for local rural roads and $1,500,000 for State road bond payments.

Distribute 17,000 New Phone Books

Distribution of approximately 17,000 copies of the new Fall Issue of Castle, Ellwood City and Wampum is now in progress, according to an announcement today by Mr. Bingham, District Manager here for the Bell Telephone Company.

Nearly 13,000 books are to be distributed to subscribers in New Castle and the areas served by the local central office. About 3,000 directories are to be distributed in Ellwood City and vicinity.

"The directory contains hundreds of new numbers, changes having been made necessary by the removal of subscribers from one district to another and the addition of new telephone users to the list," stated Mr. Bingham.

He urged subscribers to consult the new book before placing calls, and thereby reduce to a minimum the possibilities of furnishing the operators with wrong numbers.

"Five cases tried in federal court," says a headline. Yes, and the district attorney probably is just as tired of fooling with them.—The Little Rock, Arkansas, Democrat.

European Talk Is Given At Phalanx

Mrs. Carrie Jeffries Roberts, this city, European traveler, told the New Castle Phalanx, a group of her different sojourns abroad at its regular meeting in the Y. M. C. A. There were 23 members and guests present.

The fraternity made plans for the opening of its four Scioto street boys' clubs next Friday evening. They will be conducted weekly during the winter by Phalanx men.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing

Red Cross Roll Call Endorsed By Local Posts

All Ex-Service Men's Organizations Unanimously Approve Coming Drive

Endorsement of the 14th annual Red Cross Roll call was made by the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion and Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars at their recent meetings, following closely on the heels of similar action by Col. Daniel Leasure Post, United Spanish War Veterans.

The action of all of the ex-service men's organizations was unanimous and spontaneous, showing recognition of the splendid work which is being carried out in New Castle by the Lawrence County Chapter.

The work among ex-service men continues to be the outstanding activity of the Lawrence County chapter, which had aided several hundred ex-service men during the past year in filing claims, securing compensation, hospitalization, pensions, funeral benefits and other rights to which they are entitled under the law.

Indications point to a great increase in this work during the coming year, and because of the splendid organization built up by the Lawrence County Chapter over the years following the war, the bulk of this work will fall on and be handled by the Chapter during the coming year.

The endorsement of the coming Roll Call by all Ex-service organizations bespeaks the fine spirit of co-operation existing between the various organizations and the Lawrence County Chapter.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Luncheon Served In Model Dining Room Tuesdays By 8A's

Girls Prepare And Serve Luncheon; Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

Each Tuesday at Mahoning school there is luncheon served in the model dining room. This custom was started last year at the school. On this day the girls of 8A-group at the school prepare luncheon for eight persons, the group consisting of six teachers of the school and two members of the 8A class, who are hostesses.

Under direction of the cooking teacher, the girls make out their menu for luncheon, do the shopping, prepare the lunch and serve it. A schedule is followed, different teachers of the school are invited as guests and the girls of 8A class turn acting as hostesses.

The girls of this class find the Tuesday luncheons interesting and educating. The girls learn several things; first to buy a correct menu; second, to buy the amount of things they need to prepare it; third, how to prepare the food; fourth, the correct way of serving a luncheon; fifth, they learn to act the part of hostess.

"THIS KONJOLA WORKED WONDERS IN MY CASE!"

Says Former Sufferer After Famed Medicine Ended Rheumatism And Other Stubborn Ailments.

MR. JOHN J. EASH

"I suffered for a number of years with rheumatism in the joints of my arms, legs and hips," said Mr. John J. Eash, R. F. D. No. 1, Johnstown. "Frequently I experienced great difficulty in moving my arms, and my knees became so stiff that I could scarcely walk. Constipation and liver trouble added much to my misery; my general health was gradually declining and I simply felt miserable. But this Konjola worked wonders in my case. I enjoy free use of my arms and legs and seldom have any pain of any kind. My bowels have been regulated and bilious attacks have been put to an end. I used only three bottles of Konjola to get this splendid relief. Although many people state that one or two bottles of Konjola brought amazing results, it is recommended that six or eight bottles be taken to obtain the best relief. Konjola is sold by Love & McGowan, the Druggists, 204 E. Washington St., this city."

the Mahoning Presbyterian church. This meeting is in the form of a social event to which all members of the church are invited. Beginning at 7:45, there will be an entertainment program in the form of a humorous play. Orchestra music will also be a feature of the evening. Later refreshments will be served. A silver offering will be received.

MEETINGS HELD
Educational clubs of Mahoning school had their regular meetings fourth period today. There are three clubs at the school this semester. Travel club, Garden club and Handcraft club. The clubs have meetings every two weeks.

What Do They Eat?

Recipes of Well-known Folk as told to Violet A. Ryder

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE, wife of our famous ex-president and known throughout the world for her graciousness and charm, has at various times imparted some of her choice cooking recipes to the housewives of America. One of the most popular and best-liked of these is her Butterscotch Pie.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE
Melt four teaspoons butter and add one-half cup flour; into this gradually stir on pint hot milk. Add pinch salt and two-thirds cup of brown sugar. Cook about five minutes, or until thick. Add two slightly beaten egg yolks and one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Cook over hot water five minutes. Let cool. Place in baked pastry shell and cover with meringue made as follows:

Beat one-third cup of egg white until foamy. Add one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Gradually add three-fourths cup sugar and continue beating for five minutes. Add a few drops of vanilla. Spread on cooled pie and bake 15 minutes at 300 degrees F. This meringue is crispy on top and creamy underneath.

PILES

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither surgery or cutting remove the cause. Had circulation of the blood in the lower bowel caused piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak, the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts. Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for two patients with the marvelous record of success in 200 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee. Dr. Leonard's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and vicinity. Every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantee to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.

Poles Threaten Danzig Trade With New Port

Harbor Of Gdynia One Of Busiest Spots On Baltic Sea

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

DANZIG, Nov. 6.—Where five years ago 300 fishermen lived a toll-free life under thatched roofs, gigantic cranes and winches, today are bustling 24 hours around the Polish seaport of Gdynia, which promises to become one of the biggest Baltic harbors.

Some fifteen miles from Danzig, this ultra-modern port has literally been stamped out of the ground by Poland, which sees in it her long-dead national outlet to the sea. Rising from the wilderness of practically virgin country, the new city and its harbor look unreal and fantastic like a scenery built up in a film picture studio, or the fast-growing settlement of a new American gold mining center. Some American observers characterize the place as "Ultra-modern America transplanted to an idyllic rural landscape in Eastern Europe."

The ever-growing development of this Polish harbor so close to the old German sea-port of Danzig, isolated from Germany through the famous Polish Corridor and made a free-state under the Versailles Treaty, promises to render Gdynia the battlefield of the fiercest struggles between the Teutonic and Slav races for the commercial supremacy in the Baltic.

Although the Poles emphatically deny any aggressive intentions in expanding their new harbor, the Free-State of Danzig and the German press raise the charge that Gdynia (Gdynia has become the pivot from which Poland will try to wrest the Baltic trade from the Danzig harbor and to "Polonize" the free-state itself, thereby rendering it ripe for political and material incorporation in the Polish Corridor.

Scarcity Of Wild Ducks Worries U. S.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 6.—A scarcity of wild ducks throughout the country is becoming a matter of concern to the United States government, according to Morris Legendre, secretary of the United States senate committee on wild life resources. Legendre was in Denver recently on his way to the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming from Santa Fe, N. M., where he had attended the annual convention of the Western Association of Game and Fish Commissioners.

Stage Props Ruin Tense Melodrama

IRON RIVER, Mich., Nov. 6.—It was a tense moment in the first act of "The Locked Door," a home talent melodrama presented here recently by the local Finnish Lodge, when the villain, properly pursued, was caught and handcuffed in the best melodramatic style.

But it was highly a ludicrous moment, to the audience, at least, when it came time to remove the manacles from the villain's wrists. The handcuff lock just wouldn't function so the "bad man" was forced to leave the stage and retire to a local garage to free himself of the cuffs.

Sow Sweet Clover Save Bittersweet, Commission Asks

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—"Scatter sweet" clover. "Save the bittersweet." The State Game Commission today issued its annual appeal embodying those two requests.

The first is directed particularly at sportsmen who are asked to help provide food for wild animals by scattering sweet clover at places in the woods and fields where it will thrive.

Regarding the steady destruction of bittersweet officials of the Game Commission said that few hunters are responsible. Hunters know its value to wild life when heavy snows cover smaller vegetation and are willing that it should remain in the woods rather than to serve for decorating homes. Thoughtless motorists who delight in seizing upon anything that may be obtained free of charge along the roads were blamed for the bittersweet destruction.

Digs Up Potato Bearing Initial

(International News Service)
TIFFIN, O., Nov. 6.—A massive potato, branded by nature with the initials of its owner was found recently by Thomas Knight while digging on his farm near here.

Except for a letter "K" three inches high, the tuber weighing two and a quarter pounds was perfect. It measured 19 inches in circumference at its longest axis and 14 inches around the opposite direction.

SPECIAL DELIVERY REQUIRES 15 CENTS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—Confirmed optimists who send a ten-cent special delivery stamp to Motor Vehicle headquarters at the Capitol, believing either that a ten-cent special will carry fourth class mail matter, or that a benevolent Motor Vehicle bureau supplies the deficiency if any, they are mistaken.

"Tell them that when they ask for special delivery of tags they must enclose a 15-cent special delivery stamp," said Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon.

Comedienne

BETTY CAMPBELL

Mrs. Barton is the comedienne in "The Nut Farm" at the senior high school this week. She is the plain, sensible mother and mother-in-law of the family involved in the cinema venture that comes near being a tragedy. Even she, however, cannot withstand the infection of Hollywood and under its subtle influence begins to see herself as a middle-aged Mary Pickford. Her ludicrous attempts at acting offer great opportunity for genuine stage humor and Miss Campbell makes the most of her opportunities.

CHRISTIAN CHOIR PLANS SONG SERVICE

The choir of the Central Christian church is planning and rehearsing for a Sacred Concert, which they will present in the church auditorium Sunday evening.

David Lewis, choir leader, is in charge of the program, which will be made up of choruses, quartets, solos and duets.

NEARLY 300 ARRESTS

The receipts of the month totalled $693.65 of which amount $637 represented the fines and forfeits.

The new regimental insignia of the 103rd Cavalry has been received at the armory and will be distributed at the drill Sunday. The insignias are made of metal and will be fastened to the lapels. The design has been approved by the War Department.

Wind and cold noticeable today had no terrors for the horses at the stables. Sergt. Knight and Robinson are making every effort to keep the animals comfortable.

Balance of equipment ordered from the U. S. P. & D. O. will be received today. This includes 50 new uniforms and supplies.

Capt. Bintrim today received word from the War Department that a captaincy in the Reserve Corps has been granted to him.

Marks of 98 per cent and 97 per cent were given the non-com officers who took the two sub courses, No. 2, "Care of Animals," according to word received today from Capt. Shelton. The marks were accorded to the group, not to individuals.

"Combat Problems" will be studied at the non-com school Friday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Winona Bintrim, Greenburg, a sister of Capt. Bintrim is visiting in the city.

Several Staff Members Attend Library Meeting

The Four County Library Club is meeting at Mercer today and Mrs. C. S. Royce, trustee of the New Castle free public library, Miss Rose Barber, reference librarian, Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian and Miss Alice Morrison, of the staff, are attending.

The meeting is being held in the First Presbyterian church.

Nebraska bankers now offer $3,000 each for dead bandits. So far no ruined depositor has offered that much for an official of a busted bank.

Heavy Villain

YALE KAPLAN

The heavy villain of "The Nut Farm" the senior high school comedy inaugurating the season for Miss Clara Harkisuff's student actors, is to be Yale Kaplan. He is the serpent in the Eden of movie-mad Hollywood. In the role of Hamilton T. Holland he nearly succeeds in ruining the hero's family by his plausible "movie" racket. Yale has an unusually pleasing voice that readily lends itself to the suavities of Mr. Holland's persuasions.

Luther League Hold Reunion

New Castle District Of Young People Hear Dr. Xander
Of Thiel College

The Luther Leagues of Branch 2 of the Pittsburgh district of Lutheran churches held their rally on Wednesday evening in the St. John's church of this city with representatives of all Lutheran churches of the city as well as delegations from Ellwood City and Youngstown in attendance.

There were about 150 young people listened intently to Dr. E. Clyde Xander, president of Thiel College, as he spoke on "The Reformation" giving the young people the benefit of his vast store of knowledge of the beginning of the Lutheran church and the life of Martin Luther, the founder.

At the business session the Grace Church of Youngstown, Ohio League was admitted to the Branch 2 of the district.

William J. Gregor, of St. Paul's Lutheran church, this city, was chosen president for the coming year and Elizabeth Budin of St. John's church this city, was chosen secretary-treasurer.

A delightful musical program was given with Albert James performing violin solos, Ardyss Rhyal and Margaretta Hess gave some piano duets and Robert Duff gave a vocal solo, after which the Luther League of the host church served light refreshments to the guests.

West Side P. T. A. Meets Wednesday

Members of the West Side Parents-Teachers association met in the school Wednesday afternoon for the regular monthly meeting with Mrs. Charles Colnot, vice president, in charge of the meeting.

The speaker of the afternoon was Dr. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church, who took as his subject "Ourselves and Our Children," bringing out how much the parent had to do with the proper environment for the early period of his life.

The children of 3A and 3B, under the direction of Miss Kivine and Miss Morrow, presented a charming little program.

THRESHING MACHINE CONCEALS PHEASANT

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—Game protectors in their search of barns and dwellings for illegally killed game have learned to know the hiding places most popular in such cases.

Deputy Lester E. Leinbach, Reading, in a recent report to the game commission here, told of finding a pheasant carefully concealed in the spout which throws the straw and chaff from a threshing machine.

Hay mows, grain bins, attics, cellars, concealed closets are what the protectors call "easy going" during the searches but the Berks county case is the first in which a threshing machine was found to harbor illegally killed game.

Demand Change To New Style Calendar

(International News Service)
BELGRADE, Nov. 6.—Change of the oldstyle Orthodox calendar to the Gregorian form, was demanded at the last meeting of the Yugoslav Chamber of Commerce in Belgrade.

Complete Plans For Annual Red Cross Roll Call

Campaign Plans Are Outlined At Meeting Held In Y. W. C. A. Last Evening

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE
TO START NOVEMBER 11

Plans for conducting the 14th Annual Red Cross roll call were outlined at a meeting held in the Y. W. C. A. last evening, with county workers from the various districts in attendance.

The meeting was largely attended by the district chairman, and the plans to be followed in conducting the annual membership drive were outlined by Attorney Clarence A. Patterson, chairman of the board of directors of the Lawrence county chapter.

The roll call will open on November 11 and will last until Thanksgiving Day, during which time, the county workers will solicit memberships.

Next Sunday will be observed as Red Cross Sunday in the churches, and the ministers of the city and county have been asked to make special mention of the roll call from their pulpits on this day.

From the enthusiasm expressed by the workers at the meeting last evening, indications point to one of the most successful roll calls held in many years.

Supplies were given the workers at last night's meeting and the work being done by the Red Cross was emphasized, particularly the importance of putting the 14th annual roll call across in a successful manner, the need for funds being greater this year than ever before in the history of the organization.

Friends of the Red Cross in New Castle will be asked to support the Lawrence county chapter this year, and plans have been made to place booths in a number of the larger stores in the downtown district, where memberships can be renewed.

TWO HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Several Accidents On Streets Of City Are Reported To Police

J. Roy Strobel of 432 Galbreath avenue, reported to the police Wednesday that he was enroute north on North Jefferson street at Grant street, when a car bearing Ohio license C 65-654 going east on West Grant street, failed to observe the stop sign regulation in driving out onto Jefferson street. Instead, according to Mr. Strobel, the driver of the Ohio license car, kept on across Jefferson street at a considerable rate of speed and hit and damaged the Strobel car.

Miss Helen Strobel was severely cut on the leg and Miss Clara Ctrobel had her head bruised in the accident.

R. C. Cummings of 258 West Falls street, reported that he was driving a truck on West State street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 9495-S going east on State street, hit and knocked his machine up against a telephone pole. His machine was damaged to some extent.

Arthur M. Brown of 304 East street, reported that he was going west on Grant street, at Elm street, when a truck, also going west on Grant street, ran into and damaged his car.

Garry C. Myers To Speak Tonight

Parents Of The City In Anticipation Of Educational Treat This Evening

All parents of the city, who are interested in the welfare of their offspring and the proper way to handle the perplexing problems that confront them every so often, will be delighted this evening to hear Dr. Garry C. Myers of Cleveland talk on this subject in the George Washington Junior High School at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Myers is the father of three healthy youngsters, two of whom are now at High school age and he is well versed in the vexatious problems that face the parent of today, his theories are not hypothetical, they are based on practical experience.

He has made a study of Psychology for a number of years and his books and pamphlets are in great demand all over the United States, as they are sent out by the government, and writings have to be worth while before they are taken up and sent out by the national controlling body.

His daily articles, which appear in the columns of The News, are read not only by the parents of the city, but also by the growing generation and it is nothing unusual to hear a child who is being corrected by the parent, say "Dr. Garry Myers says, 'this or that'."

The lecture is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. and every seat in the auditorium will be filled long before that if all the associations of the city who have talked of this lecture send as large a delegation as they anticipate.

One way to win is to look like a winner

THE man who scorns good grooming makes a big mistake. Torn fingernails, cracked and grimy hands, a careless shave or an unclear skin, spoil a man's chances for success.

A clean healthy appearance is worth everything. And you need only one simple, old fashioned familiar preparation to have them all. "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly. You'll probably find it right in your bathroom. If not, get a tube or jar from the nearest store.

To keep the hands in good condition, scrub with a stiff brush and soapy water. Then apply "Vaseline" Jelly liberally and massage your hands (exactly as if you were washing them). Work the Jelly into the base of the nails. Then wipe off and wash quickly. Your hands will emerge looking clean and fresh, like the hands of an executive, not a day laborer.

In the morning apply a film of "Vaseline" Jelly to the face before lathering. It not only gives you a clean, close, comfortable shave, but it cleanses the skin. Improves its texture. Try these two simple things.

Make Appeals On Assessments

Board Of Revision Finds Valuations Raised On North Mercer Street

It developed during a meeting of the board of tax revision which convened today in city hall that valuations on Mercer street ground had been raised by assessors who have conducted the triennial assessment here.

Bion Cover, chief assessor, told the revision board that the assessments had been raised and added that "they have not been in line with Washington street and other streets."

According to Cover the ground in North street between East Washington and North street has been assessed at approximately $500, a foot front. Several persons objected to the increase.

Cover apparently meant when he said the North Mercer street ground that "they have not been in line with Washington street" that Mercer street assessments should be raised in proportion to Washington street assessments.

Mrs. W. E. Jackson was one of those who appeared before council. She stated a lot which had been assessed $7,470 three years ago had been raised to 7,800.

Thomas B. Wagner, representing the Wagner property said the lots had been raised, one lot being assessed at $15,000. It had been $12,600.

Cover, the assessor stated the rating was about $500, a foot front. Wagner then told council.

Wagner stated that "I do not care what Washington street property is assessed for I was offered less. Is it fair?"

He maintained it should not be assessed higher than three years ago because it is not worth any more.

Council took the appeals under advisement.

Revision Board To Withhold Decisions

Councilmen who convened as a board of tax revision in city hall today stated that while the board had convened for the purpose of hearing appeals no decisions would be handed down during the sessions of the board.

Appeals from sixth ward residents or property owners were registered Wednesday and appeals from the first ward were made today.

Sessions will be resumed next week.

Relief Quota From New Castle Jewish Drive Made Tonight

Amount To Be Raised Here
Fixed Tonight In Temple
Israel Meeting At 8 O'clock

New Castle's quota of the $6,000-000 Allied Jewish Campaign Fund will be fixed at a meeting of all the local officers and workers called this evening at 8 o'clock in the Temple assembly room by the drive chairman, Harry M. Frank.

At this meeting final plans will be laid for the mass meeting to be held at The Castleton Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the campaign will be held from the 9th to 16th of this month will be inaugurated. Judge William M. Lewis, a distinguished jurist of Philadelphia and national chairman of the campaign, will be the guest speaker at the mass meeting.

Preceding the mass meeting, a 12:30 luncheon will be tendered Judge Lewis. The reception committee chairmen Mrs. L. Kohn and Mrs. Benn Kline, will receive reservations from those desiring to attend this luncheon. Any of New Castle's Jewry wishing to attend are requested to telephone for reservations not later than Sunday noon.

Two major Relief Campaigns, the Joint Distribution Committee and the Jewish Agency for Palestine, which heretofore functioned independently, have been merged locally in connection with the Allied Jewish Campaign. A communication from National Headquarters urges that the 6,000-000 fixed as the National goal is no arbitrary figure. It has been arrived at after mature consideration of the needs of the two tremendously important organizations which are to be beneficiaries of this united Jewish fund raising effort.

Three million, five hundred thousand dollars will be paid over by the Allied Jewish Campaign to the Joint Distribution Committee to cover its minimum budget for the present year in the relief of hundreds upon hundreds of Jews in Eastern Europe and help them attain self support. $2,500,000 of the National fund will go to the Jewish Agency for Palestine as the American Quota of the budget of $3,750-000 adopted at the historic conference in Zurich last August, presided over by the late Louis Marshall, to be used in fortifying the efforts of those who are creating a new Jewish life in Palestine and to prepare that land for large numbers whose greatest hope it is to settle there.

Writes Of Auto Trip To Phoenix, Arizona

Editor News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:— 2530 Richland street, Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. Currie and I started from Mr. Jackson on Wednesday, August 6, at 6 a. m. for Phoenix. Mrs. Currie did the driving, but by the time we were in Bessemer the clouds had rolled away. At Mansfield, O., we struck route 40 which led the way to Colorado Springs. The man who invented that traffic route and placed those numbers so accurately along the route certainly has the admiration and appreciation of every tourist.

You can enjoy the scenery to your satisfaction if you know you're on the right road. We traveled through Ohio and stayed all night in Richmond, Ind. They were waiting rain too. We started about 5 a. m. and got through Indianapolis before heavy traffic. Route 40 leads you through the prettiest part of the city.

Striking southwest we crossed the basin of the Wabash at Terre Haute. That night, Thursday, we stayed at Highland, Ill. Then we came to the basin of the Mississippi river at St. Louis, the largest place yet. In Missouri on Friday we stayed at Twin Springs. The manager of that place said that for years he had noticed any difference in the springs until now, the one was dry and the water in the other was not cold but very good. We were glad to get clean, wet water.

We had been told that probably we would have to pay for drinking water, but we did not have to do that. Not far from this place in Missouri we came to a thickly wooded tract where they were just starting to build an auto court out of the saplings, about two inches across. They were fitting them up

Tuesday night at the capital, Santa Fe.

I want to mention that after gazing all summer at dried up brown fields, New Mexico certainly provided a change by presenting the loveliest green fields of grass.

As we started from Santa Fe toward Albuquerque it was repulsive to remain in the car and drive past the wonderful orchards with their trees loaded with peaches, pears and apples. In Illinois, where the big corn should be, it was just like the corn grown in Pennsylvania. About six or eight miles above Albuquerque we found the most healthy corn I ever saw. I know it was ten feet high with ears a foot and a half in size. At Santa Fe and Albuquerque we saw the most gorgeous flowers, such riots of colors!

At Albuquerque we turned north-west to Gallup, then southwest about ten miles—then we were in Arizona. That night, Wednesday the eighth, we stayed at Navajo, the home of the famous Navajo rugs. Aside from the rugs they have the most wonderful display of artistic cactus gardens I ever saw. They exercise good taste in arranging the different species of cactus in the proper places. I have seen the cactus in bloom, and if I couldn't have both, I would prefer cactus to sweet peas. The cactus blooms from March to May.

We started from Navajo at 4 a. m. At real daylight we were bordering the petrified forests. That formation has to be seen to be appreciated. We came through directly south. At 5:30 we were in Prescott, 119 miles from Phoenix. The first 35 miles are mountainous. The operator at the service station said we could be out of the mountains by sundown, with 84 miles remaining. The Yarnell hill in the mountain district was a seven-mile descent. We were well out of the mountains by sun down. Had I been driving I would have stopped at Wickenburg, just half the distance between Phoenix and Prescott.

By the way, Wickenburg is the only town in the U. S. where the people do not have to pay taxes. Its population is about 600. I don't know why it couldn't be 6,000,000.

We proceeded toward Phoenix and reached 2530 Richland street at 9:30 p. m. on the ninth, having driven 368 miles since leaving Navajo that same morning.

On the trip we had but one flat tire and didn't even see a single accident. The only road trouble we encountered was when they were repairing roads in northern New Mexico. It was made a one-way road by quite a high ridge of composition in the center of the road. On our side a previous rain had left the road to the fence for a long distance.

It was a treacherous drive. The trip was so interesting to me that I thought others might enjoy reading about it.

Sincerely,
MRS. ELIZABETH FOREST.

What are the names of the members of President Hoover's cabinet?

The members of President Hoover's cabinet are: Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state; Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury; Col. Patrick L. Hurley, secretary of war; William D. Mitchell, attorney general; Walter F. Brown, postmaster general; Charles F. Adams, secretary of the navy; Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of agriculture; Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce; James John Davis, secretary of labor.

When and where did the American trophy first capture the American Cup from England? What is the birthplace of Sir Thomas Lipton?

The American yacht America defeated the British yacht Aurora in a race in British waters for an international trophy on August 22, 1851. This was the first race for the trophy which has since come to be known as the America's Cup. Sir Thomas Johnstone Lipton, Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order, Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy and Order of Saint Sava (Serbia), British tea merchant, and five times defeated challenger for the America's Cup, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parentage, May 10, 1850.

Who invented the universal language "Esperanto" and what are the main characteristics of this language?

Esperanto, the most popular among proposed auxiliary international languages, was invented by a Russian physician, Zamenhof, whose first publication on the subject in 1887 was signed Dr. Esperanto (Hopeful). This language consists of words that are common to all tongues, dropping those which are special to any one of them. In this language strict phonetic spelling is possible. The "paper blockades" of 1918 would have been greater, perhaps, had it not been for the creation of new letters by its author, which made it difficult for newspapers and other publications, not possessing the special characters, to print extracts and articles in Esperanto.

When was the Treaty of Ghent signed and what was it terminated?

The Treaty of Ghent between the United States and Great Britain was signed Dec. 24, 1814. This treaty ended the War of 1812, but failed to mention any of the causes of the war, which were the impressment of American seamen, extension of the right to search United States war vessels, the "paper blockades" established by the French Orders in Council, and the alleged efforts of Great Britain to persuade the Indians of the northwest to attack the Americans.

after football games guard against SORE THROAT

Gargle Listerine every 2 hours reduces mouth germs 98%

When you're on your way to a football game you're usually on your way to a cold, sore throat or worse. For the body, weakened by exposure, cold, and emotional strain cannot cope with the millions of disease germs breeding in the mouth. They gain the upper hand. Trouble follows.

Why not aid nature in fighting disease germs by gargling frequently with full strength Listerine, the safe antiseptic and germicide? Before the game. After the game also. Tens of thousands guard against trouble this way.

Listerine kills all type of germs, millions of them, in 15 seconds; the fastest time accurately recorded by science. Even the Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid), specified as test germs, yield to it in counts ranging to 200,000,000. Yet is safe, non-poisonous, healing in effect.

Used as a gargle Listerine reduces the number of disease germs in the mouth surfaces, 98%. That includes Micrococcus Catarrhalis (catarrh) and Streptococcus Hemolyticus germs, organisms associated with colds and sore throat.

At the first symptom of trouble, gargle with Listerine every two hours and consult your physician. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

And for COLDS

A simple precaution against colds is the use of full strength Listerine on the hands before each meal. It destroys germs which may be present so that when they enter the mouth on food they are powerless to cause harm. Health authorities recommend such measures, particularly during epidemics of colds, grippe and influenza.

Newsboys Have Hot Election All Vie For Office Of Scribe

Keeping abreast with the news of the day, the Fred L. Rentz Newsboys club held a spirited election of officers in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday. Politics played a hand in the battle of aspirants for high office, and the several newsmen had hopes of coping the most cherished office, that of scribe, saw one of their number win the post.

The youngsters were not alone in the boys' department. Boys' Work Director Thomas was present to see that the election was "regular" and that no alteration would arise, in view of the fact that it had been said beforehand a spirited battle would ensue.

Believing only in the reliability of their shrill voices, the youngsters decided to cast aside the ballot and elect their officers by loud acclamation.

Few dissenting voices were heard when John DeLaverson, 320 South Jefferson street, was elected president by a loud vote. Andy Pasquale got the next office without any trouble, everyone apparently yelling for him. The office of scribe featured the greatest battle, and when the smoke cleared away, Victor Nativio of 1008 Clearview avenue, was the victor. At least a dozen others had "tried" out for the job. Stanley Exposito was made treasurer. The boys voted to continue their basketball games as usual in the Y. gym this season, at a business meeting that followed the election. They also voted their intention of partaking as usual in the monthly "feed" provided by the "Y".

The following members attended the meeting:

There will be eight different style neck-tie racks, magazine racks, many style cutting boards, hexagon taburets, small cabinets, and book-ends.

Especially appealing to people who have seen the work done by these youngsters are the unique book-ends made of wood. Some are made to represent puppy dogs—one half of the dog looking out from the front of his little dog-house, and the other half visible from the rear. These book-ends can be made by the boys in 2 lessons, or 4 hours.

The cutting boards are attractive as well as useful. They are finished off in splendid shape and pretty designs painted on them.

The machine shop, general, metal work departments will have exhibits at the Administration building Monday, as well as the wood department.

Monday is the first day of National Education Week.

Poppy Day Plans To Be Discussed

Committee From American Legion Will Meet This Evening At Legion Home

Plans for conducting the annual Poppy Day by the Perry S. Gaston Post of the American Legion, will be discussed at a meeting of the committee headed by Chairman Clarence A. Patterson in the Legion Home Association building this evening.

The poppies to be sold on November 15 have arrived and most of the plans for conducting the sale have been completed. The details for the day's campaign will be worked out at the meeting this evening.

The annual Poppy Day sale is held by the post as a means of raising money to carry out relief work among the disabled and unfortunate ex-service men of the district, and a greater need for funds is anticipated this year than in the past.

Are Royally Entertained At Installation Service Tuesday Evening

Members of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars and their ladies were royally entertained by members of the Joseph T. Black Post of Butler and their Ladies Auxiliary on Tuesday evening, following the joint installation ceremonies held there.

Commander Bell addressed the members of the post and auxiliary on Armistice Day, and was informed that members of both organizations would be here with a big delegation, accompanied by a 50 piece band. Mrs. Wood recited a poem significant to the occasion while impromptu remarks were made by Mrs. Johnson.

The latter hours of the evening were spent in dancing and cards, and a fine lunch was served by the Butler ladies.

Avoid Too Much Shading

(This is another lesson in the national cartoon contest of Central Press.)

By JACK SORDS
Nationally Famous Sports Artist

The proper placing of shading in a cartoon was discussed yesterday and two examples of proper shading given. However, this is so important in the execution of a well-drawn cartoon we continue discussing the matter today and, above, give a comparison of balanced and unbalanced shading.

Look at the cartoons above. They are exactly alike except in the matter of shading. The top cartoon looks better than the one below it because the shading is balanced—the man's dark suit is separated from the dark shadow on the wall. Below, this is not the case and a sloppy, uneven appearance results.

To acquire proper shading, first complete your cartoon in outline. Then study it and determine where the shading should be. If you want a figure of a man to have a pair of dark trousers, you may leave the coat light but have him wear a dark hat, and so on.

Be careful to avoid placing TOO Much shading in a picture, as this spoils the outline.

NEXT: R. J. Scott Discusses Lettering. Are you preparing your cartoons for sending in?

STUDENTS HEAR BYRD ENGINEER

Lieutenant T. B. Mulroy Speaks To Franklin Junior High Students This Morning

Lieutenant Thomas B. Mulroy of the United States Navy, chief engineer on the South Pole expedition of Admiral Richard Byrd, spoke to the student body of Benjamin Franklin junior high school this morning between the hours of 10:30 and 12:00.

Lieutenant Mulroy was a most interesting speaker and his lecture was listened to most attentively by junior high students. In connection with the lecture Lieutenant Mulroy showed a number of pictures taken on the trip to the South Pole. The pictures were shown on the screen and served to make the descriptions given by Lieutenant Mulroy more vivid in the minds of the large audience.

The chief engineer expects to make another expedition with Byrd in 1932.

Mine Rescuers In Thrilling Race

Fast Train Takes Rescue Car From Pittsburgh To Ohio Disaster

(International News Service)

MILLFIELD, O., Nov. 6.—Time had won today in a race with mercy. Although main line tracks of the Pennsylvania Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad were cleared and right-of-way orders were issued, the rescue car of the United States Bureau of mines arrived here too late.

Informed by International News Service that 150 men had been buried in the explosion and fire in the number six mine of the Sunday Creek coal company here, the bureau of mines at Pittsburgh at once ordered a rescue car with engineers and equipment to the scene.

The special train roared down the right-of-way from California, Pa. to Pittsburgh where an International News Service Staff Correspondent was taken aboard.

From Pittsburgh to Trinway, O., the train averaged 55 miles an hour. At Trinway, a lighter locomotive required on the branch line waited. The lighter engine was rapidly coupled onto the special train and made the run to New Lexington in fast time, arriving there at 8:19 o'clock last night.

Piloted through the trip by the "fastest runners," the crack engineers of the Pennsylvania, the branch line and the New York Central, the mine car was shunted into a siding near the Colliery after making one of the fastest trips on record.

It was heartbreaking, then, to the rescue workers to be told that the men trapped in the wrecked operation probably were dead.

Eighteen Barrels Wood Shavings In Week Swept From Trade School Floor

If the saw dust that is swept every evening from the floors of the manual training department of the Benjamin Franklin junior high school and the cabinet making department of the New Castle Trade School, was saved for a period of a couple months and then all dumped on the main street of New Castle—what a nice pile for local kiddies to play in.

Eighteen barrels of wood shavings and saw dust are swept from the floors every week, according to the manual training instructor, W. J. Wilcox, and they are taken to the city incinerator, dumped and burned. Different type woodcutting machines make different sized chips—they range anywhere from the size of a grain of sand to a potato chip. And each evening several little boys have the honor of playing "pick-up", a game played with brooms, dustpans and barrels. The object is to get all the wood shavings into the barrels.

State Stands Fourth In Junior Red Cross Ranks

Over Two-Fifths Of School Children Of State Enrolled Last Year

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Pennsylvania ranked fourth in the country in the percentage of its school children enrolled in the Junior Red Cross during the 1930 fiscal year, according to the annual report just made public by the American National Red Cross, which will endeavor to increase the state's junior membership during the roll call to be conducted between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day for senior members as well.

At the close of the 1930 fiscal year, Pennsylvania had 842,122 Junior Red Cross members, this number representing 44.7 per cent of the entire school enrollment in the state. A far lower proportion, only 23.2 per cent. of the school children of the nation as a whole were enrolled.

Whereas the roll call for senior members is confined to the period of the annual roll call, the Red Cross accepts junior members throughout the year. Nevertheless a concentrated drive is made for younger members at the same time senior members are solicited.

the modern product of a great music house the new 1931 BRUNSWICK RADIO

For years Brunswick has been a name always closely allied with fine music. Great artists have recorded their interpretation of the world's greatest music on Brunswick records. Brunswick-built reproducing instruments have long been made by Brunswick craftsmen who handed down the tradition of fine workmanship from father to son.

It is only natural to suppose that this name, so long celebrated in the concert halls and salons of America, when applied to radio, would be placed only on an instrument worthy of Brunswick's musical reputation.

Investigate for yourself the rich tonal beauty of a Brunswick radio. Note the unusual features that make it years ahead in design and reproducing quality. Your Brunswick dealer will be glad to explain to you the importance of the UNISELECTOR, Tone Control, and other Brunswick improvements that place this radio in the forefront of the future!

Ellwood Gridders Have New Brighton As foe Saturday

High Gridders Are Being Trained To Keeping Winning Click For Rest Of Season

(By TONY PASTA)
ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 6.—New Brighton High school will be the foe against Ellwood City's blue and white gridders when they clash on the local field this coming Saturday. Having won the close contest last week the Ingle machine is anxious to continue clicking at a winning pace.

This season finds the New Brighton aggregation to be up and down and at times very colorful. For instance in their battle with Butler they flashed an unusually strong defense and held the soap miners to a scoreless tie. But on the other hand last Saturday they seemed more or less weak and chalked up another scoreless tie with Beaver doing the trick.

Here is some dope for the fans to figure out:

Beaver Falls defeated Ellwood by a score of 35 to 6. Then Butler played the local club and nosed out a 13-6 victory. Later New Brighton traveled to Beaver Falls and defeated the Tigers. Now, how strong are the Soap Miners if they held Butler scoreless and allowed the Tigers to win when they met before the Beaver Falls and Butler clash?

At any rate the local gridders are going to prove that a team can always win if they put their best efforts into the fray. A fine example of this was exhibited last Saturday when the Tubers turned into a victory, a game which seemed lost until the last few moments.

Ellwood should have more strength this Saturday as Vost and Sheeler, who were on the injured list, are expected to see action again. Sheeler was missed in the backfield and especially on the defensive. Condi replaced him and deserves plenty of credit for his fine work. He scored a touchdown and was very effective in the line plunging. He and Prisk also formed a good passing combination.

Another such who showed up well against Monaca, was Timblin. He saw action for the first time, and although being a trifle nervous at first, he played in first class style. The blue and white has shown rapid strides in their progress and hope to annex Saturday's tilt.

Apples Enjoyed By Healthy Folks Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 6.—Eat more fruit if you would be healthy. This week, which is being celebrated over the United States as "Apple Week," the old rhyming thought comes up: "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

Doctors of Ellwood City go further and suggest that more than one apple a day would not be too much. In fact, doctors of this city claim that Ellwood is a healthy place for every one with the exception of doctors—who must live. Local people eat apples.

But aside from the question of doctors and their desire to be of assistance, we might state that apples are seen in many stores. Not only do we find them in fruit shops and grocery stores, but confectionery shops and drug stores. Here we find in addition delicious looking groups the luscious King, Grimes golden, Roman beauties, delicia and rainbow.

Titans Prepare Iron Defense To Throttle Geneva

Alan Harper, Star Halfback
Ill With Cold—Look For Tough Game Saturday

GENEVA TEAM IS FAVORITE

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 6.—With three victories and three defeats as their record, the Westminster college gridmen are working hard in preparation for the Geneva game at home Saturday afternoon. Alan Harper, star halfback, did not report for practice the first two days of the week. He was confined to his room with a bad cold.

But Coach "Dike" Beede is not spending much time on offensive drills this week. All of the Monday drill and the greater part of that on Tuesday were devoted to defensive tactics. Beede claims the Covenanters under Harpster are the best team in the section and that the Titans will aim to keep the score down as low as possible in Saturday's tilt.

Must Watch Knapic. Beede has seen Geneva in action three times this year, so knows what to expect. The remarkable playing of Knapic in his first year of college ball, the clever footwork of Captain Knapic, the end play of Aultman and the defensive work of Eging and Ransom mark these men as among the best in the entire district.

Knapic, Ewing and Grahame are undoubtedly as good as any three backs on any team, including those of Pitt, Tech and Duquesne, in the section. Because they stand head and shoulders above the rest of the district players and because of the effectiveness of their air attack, Geneva is the favorite by four or five touchdowns in Saturday's tilt.

The fact that both Beede and Harpster were captains and stars on the Carnegie Tech team adds an element of interest to the annual game between the two rivals. But most of the Tech system offense will be seen on the Geneva side Saturday since Beede will confine his efforts to keeping the total score run up by the Beaver Falls crew as low as possible.

Farrell Hopes To Annex County Title

Must Hurdle Sharon In Game Saturday To Win Coveted Crown

Farrell High has one more hurdle to leap before Farrell can claim the Mercer county football championship. Farrell is scheduled to play Sharon Saturday. A victory for Farrell will assure the title but a setback will put the race in a mud-dle since Sharon, Sharpville and Grove City have each dropped a game. Greenville with two losses is out of the race.

Joe Toskin, Farrell halfback, leads the scoring in Mercer county with 24 points.

Marcellas Will Play Croton Team For Indies Title

It was announced this morning that negotiations have been completed for a championship game to be played between the Marcella football team and the Croton eleven. The game which will be played at a later date and will be for the title of the New Castle Independent League.

Both teams have been undefeated this season. In the Marcella lineup will be found six ex-high grid stars. They are Charles "Tippy" Richards, Angelo Mooney, Mike Di-Thomas, Tobe Pernati, Mike De-Muccio, and George Mike. Croton will bank on their four high stars in Art Silberman, Roy Frampton, Earl Turk, and Bruce Alexander.

Slippery Rock To Play Bessemer Team

Coaches Will Send Elevens Through Signal Practice Friday

Bessemer and Slippery Rock have one more day of training and it is probable that the coaches will eliminate the grueling scrimmage and chose their elevens through signal practices Friday in preparation for the Saturday afternoon game at Slippery Rock. Coach Fredericks believes that Bessemer will give Slippery Rock a hard battle and if his proteges come through hope to go into the game with Union High next week with an unsullied slate.

ANNOUNCING AS A NATIONAL PASTIME

"Pop" O'Brien Is Fatally Stricken While Refereeing

Dean Of American Boxing Referees Drops Dead In Ring At Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Francis P. (Pop) O'Brien, 65, dean of American boxing referees, is dead. He died as he had wished with his feet in the ring and the howl of a "fight" crowd in his ears.

"Pop" dropped dead last night at the Henry Horston Post of the American Legion while refereeing a bout in the annual fall amateur boxing tournament of the club. He had just finished the first round of a contest between two youthful all-for-glory leather pushers and was leaning against the ropes in the minute between rounds when he suddenly slumped to the canvas.

Physicians hurriedly jumped into the ring and declared the veteran had suffered a heart attack.

The post chaplain, Rev. Garrett Murphy, of Holy Cross church administered the last rites as the glare of the high-powered lights beat down upon the still form of the popular official. The remainder of the tournament was cancelled.

"Pop" as the rotund, ruddy-faced ring arbiter, was known from coast to coast and in the Dominion of Canada, was one of the greatest and probably best known boxing referees in the world. For more than 40 years he had refereed contests in California, Indiana, Ohio, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Louisiana, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Michigan and other states of the union.

O'Brien is survived by his widow, three sons, and a married daughter.

THE WINTER CO.
"COMPLETE OUTFITTERS TO YOUNG MEN OF ALL AGES"

HERE AND THERE
IN SPORTS' LAND

Should Battling Battalino risk his featherweight crown against Fidel La Barba in December it appears very likely as though a new 125-pound champion will be on the job the mornin' after the night before. At least this is the suspicion floatin' around the pugilistic rialto as La Barba performed something worthy of comment when he outpointed Kid Chocolate in their second bout several nights ago in New York.

Fidel entered the ring with the betting four to one on Chocolate and after the contest Chocolate's supporters groped for an answer as to why the Cuban sensation had not been able to keep step with La Barba. Chocolate's manager claims the weight which Chocolate scaled was too low but La Barba's retinue opined that La Barba could beat him any time in the future. The fan on the fence suspects that the Kid is approaching a "burned out" stage.

As for Battalino, that crown holder has, it might be said, never performed up to the standards set by some of the past featherweight champions. He won the title from Andre Routs in a 10-round bout at Hartford. Previous to dethroning Routs he had met only a few highly rated foes. Since winning the title he hasn't set the world afire and when he met a "punching bag", Vic Burrone at Pittsburgh, he showed absolutely nothing.

Chocolate's career would make splendid material for a Horatio Alger. Born in Cuba, he took to the fight game, amassed 12 consecutive knockouts, heard the call of the United States and in his three bouts in New York scored three knockouts in a total of nine rounds. His next 13 fights brought him six knockouts, one draw and six decisions, which wasn't so bad for a colored kid who was trying to get along in the world.

The boy who got a draw with the colored sensation was Joe Scalfaro, who is a good fighter. It was in 1929 that Chocolate waded through opponents like water through a sieve. He started off with Chick Suggs for a decision then flattened Phil O'Dowd. He defeated Bushy Graham and followed this with a 10-round victory over La Barba, who beat him a few nights ago.

These feats enthroned him in the good graces of fandom and the money flowed into his pockets. From a "forty dollar fighter" when he arrived in New York he became a fighter who could write in his own figures and he did not forget the clubs when he got his first fights. He continued in quest of victories and while travelling along the route met two boys who have fought here—Steve Smith and Eddie O'Dowd. Chocolate beat them and also sandwiched in a decision over Al Singer, the present lightweight champion.

Having reached the peak of popularity and considered the best featherweight, he listened to the call of Fidel and tangled a second time and lost to La Barba. His retinue claim he was so afraid of being over-weight and he did not eat any dinner or supper on Sunday and passed up breakfast Monday morning and instead of weighing around 126 net the scale at about 123, a pound less than La Barba, Monday night. This sapped his strength, his manager says.

La Barba's mentors, however, claim that this is "bologna" and that Fidel was too smart and fast for Chocolate. The fan on the fence, however, is inclined to believe Chocolate may be "burning out". There may be something to this. The future alone can tell. However, they base their statement on the fact he has fought 170 fights up to 1930, out of which he had scored 126 knockouts.

La Barba is two years older than Chocolate. He was born in New York in 1905. He is an Italian-American and the records show among his first opponents Jimmy McLarin, to whom La Barba lost. He was recognized as the flyweight champion after he won from Frankie Genaro in 1923. He retired from boxing to enter college but came forth again and met such well known celebrities as Newsboy Brown, Emil Patsch and scored a knockout over Happy Atherton, who fought here once. At that time Atherton was going fairly good.

He won from Bushy Graham in 1928 and later met Chocolate in New York. He lost the decision, took on Tommy Paul and won the decision. His next fight was with Earl Mastro. The decision went against him in Los Angeles and after knocking out Jack Mandell dropped an award to Kid Francis, one of the best flyweights on the Pacific coast. That didn't discourage him and he upset the fight world by beating Chocolate when they met the second time last Monday night.

Gene Tunney may have been the first Tunney to have won the heavy-weight championship of the world but he isn't the old only Tunney to have followed boxing; at least not according to records which show that Patsey Tunney fought Jack Jones in Cheshire, England, in 1825. The battle set a record for number of rounds. They fought 276 rounds, according to the rules that prevailed in those days. The fight lasted about four hours. While it took four hours to finish the bout there have been fights which did not go that number of rounds but lasted longer than four hours. Bowen and Burke fought 110 rounds in April, 1893, at New Orleans and the fight lasted for seven hours and 19 minutes.

A group of fans last night discussed the victory of Louis Severio over Joey Coogan at Meadville, a few nights ago. Louie landed a knockout in 58 seconds. They thought it was one of the shortest fights on record. It may have been but the shortest was Battling Nelson's knockout of Willie Rossler at Harvey, Ill., in 1902. Two seconds after the bell in the first round Nelson punched Rossler to sleep. In June of 1927, at Janesville, Wis., Whippool Brennan put Mervin Mason to sleep in 23-5 seconds after the fight started and at Carson City in 1897, Dal Hawkins flattened Martin Flaherty in four seconds.

A couple of vicious fights, while not main bouts, were staged here. Fans have not yet forgotten the Wildcat Auskings-Louis Severio encounter and the battles between Al Reno and Severio. All of them were aboard different cars, guarded by faithful followers.

The cars journeyed toward Pittston and stopped about darkness. Lanterns were employed to guide the fans and after a mile's walk the crowd found a fire-house in a small town. The fire equipment was put aside and the ring was pitched. Probably 200 fans were present. The fighters stripped in the ring. Only a few fans knew Burke had been on the road in the wee sma' hours of the morning so he wouldn't be overweight and lose a $200 forfeit.

For 12 rounds the fight was nip and tuck. O'Donnell was clever. Burke had the punch. But the weight weakening run told on Burke and in the 13th round the turn came. He was knocked down in front of where the writer was sitting. He was practically exhausted. "Get up! You're yellow!" snarled a man sitting close by. Burke heard the remark. At the count of nine he pulled himself to his feet.

He flashed for several rounds but the nimble O'Donnell, at that time one of the best coal mines had produced, stepped in and out and avoided haymakers. In the 17th Burke caught O'Donnell with a right high on the side of the head and drove O'Donnell across the ring. It was his last chance and he used every ounce of strength he had in a fusillade to beat down Bert's guard. O'Donnell retreated before him and the round ended.

They were fighting evenly in the 18th and went into a clinch. Suddenly Burke's body went limp. He sagged then collapsed in a heap. The referee counted him out and he was carried, completely out due to exhaustion, to his corner. It was the remark and nothing else in the 13th round that gave him the determination to fight until he collapsed in the 18th round of a 20-round fight.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Market Today
Is Very Unsettled

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Heavy selling of the Utility stocks, forcing a dozen or more of the best grade Gas Light and Electrical issues to the lowest prices of the year, unsettled the whole list this morning and the downward march of stocks values was resumed.

Consolidated Gas was the principal target of the bears, as blocks of the stock were thrown overboard by timid and frightened investors and speculators. Predicted restriction of Gas-company activities and earnings by the newly-elected state federal officials was the chief argument against accumulation of the Utility stocks at this time.

Consolidated Gas broke to a new low at 89 1/2, down about 2 points on the move. Columbia Gas, United Corporation, United Gas Improvement, North American, Public Service and other well known Utilities were forced downward to the year's lowest prices. United Corporation, a widely-held Utility-stock holding company with powerful financial backing, duplicated last year's lowest price when the stock dipped to 1 1/2.

Selling of the Oils was concentrated chiefly on Atlantic Refining and Standard of New Jersey. Both of which broke under the former low prices of the year. Atlantic Refining dipped to 19 1/2. The lowest price in ten years, even allowing for the frequent split-ups and stock dividends, Standard of New Jersey sold under 52 for the first time this year. Losing about a point additional.

The Steel, Rail and Electrical stocks, as well as the merchantile stocks and Specialties, held steady in this period. U. S. Steel rallied confidently to 143 1/2. Anaconda Copper dipped 1 1/2 to 34, leading the reaction of the Coppers. Loews was a strong spot in the Amusement stocks, with a raise of 1 1/2 to 58 1/2.

General Motors received a more favorable reception as the result of the regular dividend declaration and sold fractionally higher, at 34 1/2.
Wheat and Corn rallied about a cent a bushel, but Cotton sold a few points lower. Local commodity markets were irregular and call money unchanged at 2 per cent.

GARDNER NEWS

Rev. George L. Grambs, of Ellwood City, Rector of St. Andrews Episcopal church in New Castle, preached at Gardner chapel last Sunday afternoon, and expects to preach next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Rector Grambs, and Miss Emma Gibbons, and her sister Miss Esther, were guests of Gardner friends, at dinner in the evening.

Miss Ada Walker led the Young People's meeting in the evening
the subject was temperance, and Miss Emma Gibbons gave a very fine talk on prohibition. Jack Wimer will be the leader next Sunday night.
Prayer meeting is held every Wednesday night at Gardner chapel.

Last Monday night there were seven parents from Gardner, who went to the Parent-Teacher Association meeting at Shenango school. They report a splendid program was given.
Mrs. Carrie Jeffries Roberts of New Castle gave a brilliant account of her recent trip to Europe. This was greatly appreciated by all the audience. Francis Clark gave two Saxophone solos, which were well done. Refreshments were served by the girls of the high school.

Every one was pleased with this new addition to the program. The sermon from Gardner were Mr. and Mrs.
Frank M. Hay, Mrs. E. O. Alexander,
Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. A. H. Robb,
Mrs. T. J. Shaffer and Mrs. Morrow.

Mr. John C. Reed, of the old Pittsburgh road, visited over the week-end at the home of her husband's brother, Dr. and Mrs. J. L.
Reed, of North Mercer street in New Castle.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow Scott, of New Wilmington, came to Gardner last Saturday afternoon, and visited with old friends and former neighbors, when both families lived beyond Ellwood City.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Main, of Ellwood City, were guests at the same home at Gardner, quite recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Baldwin Stop went to a funeral of the former's grandmother, Mrs. John Smith, which was held last Wednesday, at West Liberty in Butler county. Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan of Isle, in Butler county, are making their home at present with Mr. and Mrs. Smith. Last Monday Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Smith went to Slippery Rock and visited the parents of Mrs. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith. Last Monday night Albert Brenner, and her mother, Mrs. Brenner, Mrs. C. P.
Craig, and Mrs. Hayes Bauder all went to the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, which was held at the Shenango school house at East New Castle. Last Friday night the young folks of that vicinity held a Halloween party at Rose Stop, in the Hall of the East New Castle Grange. Nearly every one wore a mask those who did not were fined five cents. This was a lively party and every one had a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Love moved a few days ago from the old Pittsburgh road to Smithfield street in New Castle. Mrs. Love's two brothers visited her recently. Mr.
and Mrs. Leo Geagan and baby, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Geagan, all of Wampum.

Emery Myers of Gardner, gave a Halloween party to a number of his school-mates, last Friday night. The young folks all wore masks and had great fun trying to identify each other. Miss Lois Myers assisted her brother in directing the plays and games, and later assisted her mother, Mrs. Myers, in serving fine Halloween refreshments. This jolly crowd will long remember the shouts of laughter, the gay prattle,
